$1.8 million turn-around

'Boot strap' effort saves city from bankruptcy

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

A "boot strap" effort on the part of residents, employes and administrative officials has kept Romulus from going bankrupt and saved the city $1.8 million.

According to audit figures reported jointly this week by Treasurer Beverly McAnally and Finance Director Patsy Cantrell, Romulus faced a budget deficit of $785,000 as of June 30, 1979. In addition to that, the city was encumbered by deficit in other funds of nearly a half-million dollars from previous years.

"Not very many people realized it at the time, but the city was on the verge of receivership," Mrs. McAnally said.

She said the two-fold reason of poor record keeping and failure of the computer to function had placed the city in such a precarious financial predicament without officials realizing the severity of the problem.

"In early 1980, when we were able to get the figures together, we realized what a large financial problem we had," she said.

"We embarked on a new program that basically did three things: restrict spending, stop paying bills for three months and find ways to generate new revenues.

"The success of our efforts is due to everyone in Romulus sharing the burden and being willing to sacrifice."

Mrs. McAnally, who was elected Treasurer in November 1979, said that poor record keeping and failure of the computer left city officials without necessary financial information.

"In this day of high technology, I was able to set down with pencil, paper and adding machine and get vital figures together."

She gave Mayor William M. Oakley credit for much of the success of the "boot strap" effort.

"Mayor Oakley saw the severity of the problem and addressed it head-on in late 1979 and early 1980. We had many, many meetings of elected officials and department heads. We talked to employes and to our creditors.

"Recouping the money was a joint effort on the part of everyone and everyone deserves credit for the turnaround."

Mrs. McAnally said that some vendors complained when they had to wait three months to be paid but added that 95 percent cooperated. "Also, city employes were very helpful and made suggestions that saved money in a lot of ways. Our employes kept working without a contract and without a pay increase. In fact, they have now gone 13 months without an increase of any kind."

Mrs. McAnally called it a "boot strap effort" on the part of everybody that turned the city from a $785,000 decifit as of June 30, 1979 to a $1,010,115 positive balance as of June 30, 1980. "That's nearly a $1.8 million turnaround in just one year," said Mrs. McAnally, sounding surprised at the large amount of money involved.

How do you plug this?

Despite pleas to the company and appearances before City Council, Romulus resident James Walker (above) can't find a way to stop what he says is industrial oil flow from a nearby plant. He says the waste pollutes and smells and empties into a ditch on Grant Street, across from where he and his family reside. City officials said they have met with company officials and the Department of Natural Resources and they hope to resolve the problem soon.

Rush asks city to get new bids for car fuels

Unless you're from outer space, no one has to remind you of the never-ending, ever-increasing costs in energy and gasoline.

And Councilman Ed Rush last Tuesday saw a way for the city to save money on its gasoline purchases. He received unanimous support from his colleagues on Council.

Rush told Council that he attended a school board meeting and learned that the board took their fuel contract away from Gulf and awarded it to Mobil Oil Company. He said the school board based the decision on prices that would give the district considerable savings.

"Regular gasoline they were purchasing for $1.06.8 and unleaded for $1.10.8," Rush pointed out. "So, with that in mind I wanted to check the bills we have before us tonight and I believe we're paying over 10 cents more per gallon."

Rush said his research turned up that the city used 7,500 gallons of gas last month and that didn't include diesel fuel.

"That 10 cents per gallon savings comes to $750 a month and annually that's $9,000 we could possibly save by going to a different supplier of gasoline and fuel oil, so at this time I would make a motion to direct our purchasing director to put out bids for gasoline purchases."

The board, with councilmen Ray Cantrell and Gerry Canejo absent from the proceedings, voted uanaimously in support of the motion.

Attention class of 1961

There's been a mix-up

Attention, Belleville High "Class of 1961".

If you're going to attend your class reunion this weekend, better get there a day earlier — because there's been a mix-up in scheduling.

The reunion will be held at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 7. NOT on Saturday, Aug. 8.

Same place — the Sheraton Hotel in Ann Arbor, however.

"We don't know how it happened," explained Class Reunion organizer Debbie Brown, "but apparently the hotel management had scheduled two events for Saturday night. It's a new hotel and a year ago they booked someone else in.

"So, we're hoping to reach all of our alumni in time," Ms. Brown said, "to inform them of the change."

Ms. Brown also said that there would be no tickets at the door and only a few left. Persons must purchase them before Thursday "because the hotel needs a head count".

Those who have questions may contact Ms. Brown at 662-7176 or 973-7374.

Commissioners conclude:

County charter would fill void at the top

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

A cumbersome form of government that has "a void at the top" is in line for reorganization, but how it will be changed will be up to the voters in Wayne County in the November general election.

It will take an enlightened electorate to determine in which direction the county will go as a soon-to-be home rule county, and it is now the task of the Wayne County Charter Commission to educate county residents about the first home rule charter drawn up in the State of Michigan.

The Wayne County Charter Commission spent six months of wrangling and compromising to come up with the 34-page document that has received the approval of the Attorney General and Governor and which will be before voters on Nov. 3, and according to charter commission president George Ward, it offers a "dramatic improvement" over current county government, even though "it is by no means perfect."

The charter sets up an executive branch and legislative branch, with a county executive officer (CEO) overseeing, or managing, the day-to-day operations of county government. The CEO would heat up the executive branch of the government and would be vested with such powers as drawing up the county budget and appointing department heads for all departments not headed up by elected officers, and exercising control over the Wayne County Road Commission.

"What the charter commission created was a top manager," Ward explained at the first of informational forums that will be held between now and the November election. "We tried to create an office with powers commensurate to the task vested in it."

Kwik work

Romulus residents come to the aid of handicapped

A large number of blind children will reap the benefits of the care and concern of some dedicated Romulus people.

The Kwik Helpers CB Club promised a guaranteed donation of $1,000 to Penrickton Center for the Blind in Taylor and surpassed their goal at Romulus Sidewalk Sales recently.

James Shelton, president of the group, was pleased and proud to give thanks for Romulus residents and merchants who made the large gift possible.

The Kwik Helpers set up shop in downtown Romulus during the successful Sidewalk Sales DAys July 17 and 18.

"We have a lot of people to thank for our wonderful success in reaching our goal," Shelton said.

"We want to thank the VFW for the loan of their tables and to all the Kwik Helpers Club members for their hard work in making this event successful.

"Thanks to the Romulus Central Downtown Business Association members for inviting us to partiicpate in their sidewalk festival," he said.

"In today's challenging world of responsibility and strife, I share with you the joy and love of helping others," Shelton said.

"This community has shown we can work together to prove that the good overrides the bad. We are proud of our town and its citizens. Thank you for helping make our progress possible," Shelton said.

Romulus Auto Parts and Family Hair Shoppe donated the use of their electricity. Wilbert Hamlet and his wife let Kwik Helpers use their motor home for a concession stand to sell food and drinks to raise the money.

Shelton said Mrs. Rita Britton deserved a lot of credit for her had work in Publicity shy?

Is Romulus District Court Judge James Stone (at left) publicity or photograph shy? Nope, the judge is digging into his bag of golf tricks in hopes of coming up with the right touch for a recent golf tournament. But when asked what he shot, the judge said that he "would prefer to discuss that later." And the golfer with his cap over his face? He's Belleville's Conrad Schwartz who also played a round of enthusiastic golf.

$1.8 Million 'turn-around'

She said that her determined efforts in collecting delinquent personal property taxes, some dating back to 1970, resulted in taking in more than $200,000. She also collected a large amount of back county taxes.

A third effort on her part, investing all "idle money" in interest-bearing accounts, has resulted in more than $300,000 more revenue for the city. "The banks we deal with deserve a lot of credit also," she said. "They facilitated investment opportunities for us. Also, all the banks waived their collection fees on current taxes and all but one waived their fees on water bills."

The "boot strap" effort resulted in the residents receiving reduced services. Romulus City Council recognized the huge deficit and allocated $900,000 less for city services, which meant that residents had their roads plowed less often in the winter and received less chloride on the roads in the summer.

Employes used less lights at city hall in an effort to save on the electric bill.

"This went on more than a year," she said. "At the end of the year, as a result of all those efforts, our ledger showed a positive balance of slightly more than one million dollars."

The annual budget for the City of Romulus is $6,148,271. The "turnaround" of $1,795,227 is nearly 33 percent of that amount.

Mrs. McAnally said that a lot of "little things" added up to big savings. "For instance, we made a big push to have people come in and get their dog licenses instead of sending employes door-to-door as in the past. Residents responded and we more than tripled the number who purchased dog licenses, plus we didn't have to knock on doors."

With many cities, institutions and agencies teetering on the verge of bankruptcy today, the "Romulus tunaround" — going from $800,000 in debt to a cut in expenses of $1.8 million — is truly a Cinderella story.

"I believe that it's the story of a community that was determined not to get down. A story of dedicated people who once again showed the ingenuity that proves we can do something if we set our hearts on it," Mrs. McAnally said.

And the best thing of all is the fact that all of the people of Romulus took part in the Cinderella story."

Charter

However, how strong the CEO will be will be determined by which charter voters favor the most. Theoretically, voters have six options in voting on Nov. 3. They can vote yes for both, vote yes on the elected plan and no on the appointed plan or vice versa, or vote for the elected plan and abstain on the appointed plan or vice versa.

It will be up to that CEO, whether appointed by the Board of Commissioners or elected by county voters, who will keep the county on an even keel, intergrating all officers, including the elected officers — sheriff, drain commissioner, registrar of deeds, clerk and treasurer — into formulating a budget.

It will also be the CEO that will exercise controls over the Wayne County Road Commission. Currently, members of the WCRC are appointed by the Board of Commissioners and "enjoy a lot of independences," since the board can exercise little, if any, control over it.

However, under the proposed charters, the CEO would have "the direct tools to implement the policies of the WCRC" and have the power to appoint WCRC members. The powerful WCRC is responsible for all county roads, Willow Run and Detroit Metropolitan airports and the sprawling Edward Hines Park and several other county parks, but according to Ward, the only thing the charter and law requires is that the roads stay under the WCRC's jurisdiction.

The board, by the way of the CEO, could be required to give up its claim to operating the park and airports.

"The role of the charter is to empower, to enable officials to act," Ward explained. "This charter gives the CEO to the powers of management and to act accordingly."

"The board will administer at the good graces of the CEO, but public pressure on the CEO could bring the WCRC in line. The tools are there.

Police network is in jeopardy

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Are the reports of the "death" of the Western Metropolitan Emergency Communications Network—as Mark Twain once described those of his own—greatly exaggerated?

Contrary to some published reports, Canton has not yet pulled out of the police network it shares with the City of Belleville and the townships of Van Buren and Sumpter.

But Canton definitely wants out—and has asked permission of the state to withdraw.

Canton Police Chief Jerry Cox says that his community has outgrown its need for WMECN, which has foundered sunce its beginning in 1977.

"We've been five years putting the WMECN together and it siimply hasn't worked," Cox said. "Our basic problem was that when WMECN started Canton was a part-time police department. Now that we're a larger fulltime police department, we've outgrown our justification for participation.

"Originally all four communities had limited law enforcement capabilities. Our need for that coordination is not as significant today as it was five years ago."

Cox said the report that Canton had dropped out of the 4-community police network "was not true"—but admitted that Canton will withdraw as soon as feasible.

Elected officials from the remaining three communities—Belleville, Sumpter and VAn Buren said they would continue to cooperate to provide law enforcement for their residents if Canton pulls out. Mayor Justin Emerson of Belleville, Supervisor Pat Cullin of VAn Buren and Supervisor Jim Reeves of Sumpter recently met and confirmed their intention to continue working together.

No elected officials want to publicly criticize other community leaders for the failure of the consortium to become a success. But all have cited "a lack of cooperation" among participating communities.

For instance, Canton has been criticized by some who say that community wanted to keep Central Dispatching at its police station rather than have it go to Belleville, which originally got the frequency. Canton, on the other hand, claims there was a lack of cooperation when it tried to train dispatchers at its facilities.

And outspoken Canton Supervisor James Poole feels that his community has been, in effect, subsidizing the 4-community police network the past four years.

"Canton underwrote the system to the tune of $135,000 the past five years—and we just got our money," Poole said. "Van Buren and Sumpter owed us money for years and just paid us back recently."

"We were paying the bills and the state asked up if we'd like to get out of the police network."

Emerson, Reeves and Cullin stress that they have no intention to disagree publicly in the newspapers. However, they say that Canton has failed to live up to certain portions of the agreement and they also contend that Canton wrote and asked the state for permission to withdraw—not the other way around.

Mike Gorman, finance director of Canton, explained that Canton originally funded the $108,000 to purchase the dispatch equipment and its installation. It was subsequently repaid the money through a state and federal grant.

It took WMECN three years to finally start training dispatchers. Canton police station was the site of Central Dispatch for the four participating communities and trained dispatchers from Sept. 1980 until March 1981. WMECN's Board of Control—the Police Chiefs of the participating communities—voted last March to move Central Dispatch back to Belleville.

Some say that moving Central Dispatch from Canton to Belleville was the main reason Canton wants to withdraw from the police network. Canton officials say that is nonsense.

"What difference does it make where the dispatcher's voice is coming from?" inquired Canton Supervisor Poole. "What difference does it make where he sits?"

Poole said the date of Canton's withdrawal from the police network depends on whether it has to pay back any of the grant money to the state.

"The state has not been very helpful," Poole said. "They've used double standards—making allowances in some instances and being rigidly strick in other cases. For instance, they told us at first we could not pull out, but they said Huron Township could. Now they say we can pull out."

Belleville, Van Buren and Sumpter officials say they will continue to operate the police network regardless what Canton does.

Sumpter Board of Trustees last week voted unanimously to increase their annual financial support of WMECN from $28,000 to $32,000.

Mayor Emerson of Belleville also feels Canton should pull out if that's what it wants.

"Canton, I feel, wants out," he said. "They haven't paid any money toward this year's budget. Our purpose is to provide Central Dispatching."

Secretary named to hold Van Buren budget strings

The broadening gap between Township Supervisor Patricia Cullin and the Van Buren Township Board of Trustees reached unprecendented proporations last week as the Board voted to give a confidential secretary budgetary powers.

But Mrs. Cullin, who viewed the 5-2 decision "as a duplication of work that the township citizens will have to pay for" told the Board that she will continue to do the work as set forth by state law, and to continue her role to handle budgetary responsibilities of this township."

With trustees Darwin Kureth, Chester Wojie, Fred Domen, Tom WElty and clerk Doreen Craven voting in favor of a motion to name secretary Cheryl FAin to handle the township budget, Sup. Cullin mustered help from the remaining board member, Tim Toohey.

Welty introduced the motion and received support from Domen "to add a financial officer to watch our budget—a person who would act more like a watchdog—take inventory of each department." And he went on to nominate Ms. FAin with an adjustment in her annual salary of $16,447 of $600 per year for the additional work."

Cullin immediately informed the Board that she had asked the township attorney and the auditor for their interpretation of Public Act 621 of 1978 and "that act clearly defines. . . "that the chief administration shall have final responsibility for budget preparation and presentation of that budget to the legislative body and control of the expenditures under the budget and the general appropriations act."

Cullin read the act to her colleagues and Welty asked, "What's this have to do with a financial officer" and Cullin responded "that the act clearly defines what the supervisor of the township's responsibilities are."

Mrs. Craven informed the Board that she originally sent the memo to the supervisor requiesting, that we do at Board level appoint a finance officer shortly after we adopted all of our budget—the auditor suggested and I'm quite sure he did use the word finance officer, and that's what I had in mind—a person who would monitor all of the ledger cards because we did adopt such tight budgets."

Kureth offered one of the reasons why he would support the motion was that "because of a township this size, the supervisor has considerable amount of duties and she should delegate the work to someone else. I find the person recommended by Welty is capable for the job."

Domen entered the debate by saying he would withdraw his second, "if I thought a department that I've been in—which has been recreation, police—you name it, I've been in it—if I could go in and get a honest answer where by budget is.

"I will say that I doe believe in the act (P.A. 621), and I do believe that the supervisor is responsible for the budget," Domen continued. "I also think that we have been at meetings here with the fire, police department would come up and nobody knows exactly how much has been spent and how much is left, and that's why I supported the motion."

To this criticism, Cullin replied: "We do get reports (on budget) regularly from the clerk's department where the budgets and accounts are."

Mrs. Craven said that "this budgetary report gives you information after the fact and it's a month old. Our problem is that we have to know the information prior to the expenditure."

Toohey reiterated that he felt the work would be a duplication at a cost to the taxpayers.

"I feel once again that what we're doing here is duplicating work," Toohey stressed. "The vote really isn't goingf to mean anything because the supervisor has obligations and responsibilities set forth in law, so we're duplicating and spending money which we so sorely need for other things."

Everybody loves a parade

Romulus residents love a parade a much as anyone and all eyes will be turned to the City of Belleville this Sunday at 1:30 p.m. when the Wayne County 4-H Fair Parade marches down Main Street, across I-94 and to the Fairgrounds at I-94 North Service Drive and Quirk Road. The parade kicks off the annual 4-H Fair in Van Buren Township which runs from Aug. 9-16 this year. Exciting events and animal judging take place daily from morning until night and there's always good things to geat and drink.

Charter would fill 'void at the top'

According to Ward, the proposed charters set up a definite separation of powers between the executive and legislative branches, but "the separation is more complete with an elected executive than if the CEO were appointed by the board." The appointment of the CEO provides for "a link-up" between the two branches.

Possibly the most noticeable change by charter is the size of the Board of Commissioners. Once in place, the charter will reduce the current 27-member board to 15 members. The size is a compromise between those charter commissioners who favored the current size and those supporting a 10-member proposal.

Among the most hotly contested issues among commission members, Ward stressed that the size of the board will not mean that one segment of the county will have more representation than the other.

"There won't be less white members, or less black members and other minorities, just less members," he said. "The charter affirms the one person-one vote principle and representation the proportional within the subcommunities of the county should remain the same as currently."

The commissioners would pass on the budget and contracts, pass ordinances at the county level, have legislative oversight over all areas of county government and serve their constituents.

Problems the current county government has encountered with contracts made by the Sheriff's Department also have been addressed in the document, with language which would require board approval of all contracts and formal appropriation of funds. Language also has been included for "serviceable levels of funding," language used in "budget-busting lawsuits" that have forced a financial trouble county to provide more money than it has.

"We've tried to have an integrated home rule government that doesn't have to turn to the courts for funding," Ward said. "No program is mandated unless the funds are in the budget. By switching from a general law county to home rule, the county government will have a better legal basis that will bind all departments to the budget."

The CEO also will have extensive fiscal controls, but how well the CEO functions will be determined by "his courage."

"That's tenuous, but always is true of a democracy," Ward added. "Government is uneven. You have four years of good government, then four years of not so good government."

"Voters will have to be sure they hire a damned good CEO."

Since the charter commission cannot use its funds to in an advocacy position, it will channeling its efforts into educating voters. Information forums will highlight portions of the charter, and actual charters will be available through the commission's offices in the Veterans Memorial Building. The charter language also will be published in one of the daily papers and possibly one or two other newspapers to inform voters.

So with their written work completed, charter commission members have their "homework" cut out for them —

'Hit the imports'

There's an old saying about "being more than one way to skin a cat", and there is also plenty of ways to "hit back at car imports" as Van Buren Township residents learned during their annual "Family Day" outing. Residents were offered swings with a sledge hammer at a foreign car, and the proceeds went for a good kause—to purchase equipment for the township-owned park. The outing was labeled as "very successful" by township treasurer, Thomas Welty, one of the two-cochairman of the program. Photo by ANP chief photographer, Lothar Konietzko.

Huron awaits grant funds

"We're going to be able to complete a lot of projects that we have started."

That's how Huron Township grants coordinator John Chihan assessed the news that Wayne County has approved the township's application for Community Block funds to the tune of $139,500.

The funds are earmarked for street improvements, fire protection, fire hall improvements, home rehab.

"These projects were programmed almost a year ago by the township board and at the next regular meeting, I will be asking the board to authorize the supervisor to sign the contracts with the county in order to receive the money."

Chihan added that once the paper work is completed, the money should be released momentarily to finish the projects.

Romulus Downtown Days were 'great'

By JOYCE PALMER
President Romulus Chamber of Commerce

The Romulus Downtown 2-Day Event had much activity going on with over 25 individual groups displaying their handcrafted articles for sale.

Chamber of Commerce auction, Jaycee Dunk Tank and a great performance by Avery Gordon, magician & his 2 assistants Sharon & Spike (The Clown) added great festivity to the program.

On Saturday, over 100 people enjoyed a fun filled evening, dancing to the Music of the Michigan Countrymen. The leader, Bobby Messer from Romulus and his group did a super job. As the evening went on, Junior Block created lots of excitement by doing a fine job as Auctioneer.

JOYCE PALMER

Phil Reake, Owen Treder, Mary Nightengale, Mr. Pitman and yours truly found it difficult to select the best dancers as everyone dancing for the contest were great.

The winners were: 1st place, George and Georgetta Darrell; 2nd place, Maurice Marklan & Cheri Corner; and 3rd place, Mike Deal and Debbie Mende.

Thanks to Junior Block, Mary Ann Banks and Mr. Pitman for their donations of cash prizes.

Something new and cute took place: a "Husband Calling Contest." The ladies really created lots of laughs when they set out to see who could call their husband the loudest. The crowd got a big kick out of the fun.

Contestants were: Mr. and Mrs. Bauschka, Mr. & Mrs. Bittenbender, Rita & Sam Britton, Diane & Randy Hess, Judy & Ray Cianforeni, Anna & Jack Bath, Lew & Jackie Lister, Orletta & Claude Holcomb, Janice & Skip Overmyer, Phyllis & Bill Casper, Mary Ann & Bob Banks, Betty & William Buis & Pam & Glen McClure.

Winners were No. 1, Phyllis Casper calling hubby Bill; No. 2, Betty Banks & hubby William; — No. 3, Pam McClure & hubby Glen.

Thanks to the merchants who donated the fun prizes — 1st place $10 shopping spree at Bilmars; 2nd, spree at Family Pharmacy; 3rd, pint of vodka; 4th, comb from Uptown Hair Fashion; & 5th, deck of cards from Romulus Hardware. All other contestants were not left out — Romulus Hardware donated consolation prizes, "hubby swatters" (fly swatters).

The C. B. Kwik helpers did it again. They were out in force not only to support the Romulus Central Business Association, but sold beer, hot dogs & chips to raise funds for the blind. This organization has never failed to give it their all, they work hard and are always on hand to stay til the end to help clean up.

Thanks go to the following that helped and devoted their time during the 2 days, also the talented people who displayed their handcrafted items: Marie Simonds, Mary Nightengale, Owen Treder, Karen Cantrell, Clyde Laine, Junior Block, Bobby Messer, Romulus Jaycees, Romulus Progressive Club, Mary and Nick Hadymiak, Mary Ann Banks, Nucore, Inc., Paul Majka, Phil Renke, Mr. Pitman, Shelvia and Jim Shelton.

Also thanks to Sam and Rita Britton and all the other C. B. Kwik Helpers, James Bennett, Degree of Honor (Mrs. Dick), Chester Grayless, Ann Golesmith, Norma Banas, United Methodist Church, St. Aloysius Church, Joanna Hardrick, Andrea Bledsor, Senior Citizens (Romulus Towers), Dora LaLond, Birdie Crumie, Dora Reich, A. & R. 'Youth for Understanding' is seeking local sponsors

When Mari Nakamichi steps off the plane in Des Moines, Iowa, next week, she will be more than 6,000 miles from home. But her family will be at the airport to welcome her. Mari is one of 4,000 exchange students arriving during July and August to sepend a year in the United States. The exchange program is sponsored by Youth for Understanding (YFU), a non-profit organization based in Washington, D.C.

Mari's new parents volunteered to participate in YFU's unique homestay program as a host family. Thy will share their home and family life with Mari while she attends the local high school and experiences American life firsthand.

But some of the new arrivals don't have a family waiting for them yet. "Right now, YFU needs additional families to host our students," said Susan Greene, YFU's Director of U.S. Programs. "These youngsters are bright, eager, and ready to share their culture with American families," Greene remarked. "It's a superb opportunity for anyone interested in international family living." Information about hosting one of these students is available by calling YFU's regional office collct at (517) 777-4420.

YFU selects students through a careful screening process, then matches them with host families according to mutual interests, activities, and backgrounds. Host families provide a home, meals, and loving care for their overseas son or daughter, but the students bring their own money for incidental expenses. Many earn extra spending money during their stay by baby sitting and doing odd jobs. Each student is covered by YFU's health insurance plan and each host family is entitled to a tax deduction of up to $50 a month, according to current IRS rules.

Host families and students receive continual support from YFU before, during, and even after the visit. "Thorough orientation and staff support are two of the reasons why our programs are so successful," Greene pointed out. "YFU's trained staff, both volunteer and professional, are dedicated people who furnish support, services, and guidance throughout the exchange process."

Since it was founded 30 years ago, YFU has helped more than 80,000 youngsters experience life in other lands. Students come to the U.S. from Asia, Europe, Latin America, and Austrialia. U.S. students also take part. YFU's goal is better world understanding through family living. Located in Washington, D.C., Youth for Understanding is the world's largest high school student exchange organization.

Let's play ball

It looks like a ball that this youngster is holding, but it actually is a big balloon he's playing with at the annual "Family Day" picnic in Van Buren Park. The other youngsters get ready to inflate their balloons. Rain fell during the day but it couldn't dampen the spirits of the enthusiastic participants. ANP photo by Lothar Konietzko.

Wilderness offers families exciting summer adventures

Michigan's nature areas offer both wilderness adventure in northern forests and family fun amidst acres of native and exotic flowers and plants an easy drive from most state cities, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Vehicles are not allowed in the Sand Lakes Wuiet Area, eight miles west of Kalkaska. Some 15 miles of pathways beckon hikers past more than a dozen small lakes buffered from civilization by hardwood and pine forests. Camping is available along the trail or at one organized facility.

Two nature areas pay tribute to Michigan's once plentiful tracts of white pine.

Hartwick Pines State Park near Grayling is a 9,000-acre wilderness preserve containing the largest stand virgin white pine in Lower Michigan. It also offers camping, an interpretive center and nature trails, incldluing one for the blind.

At the tip of the Keweenaw Penninsula in Upper Michigan, the Estivant Pines near Copper Harbor holds 200 acres of virgin timber crossed by hiking trails and containing Michigan's tallest white pine.

The Seney National Wildlife Refuge is in the eastern UP.P. this 96,000-acre wilderness tract offers a self-guided auto tour with close-up views of Canda geese, mink, ducks, deer and bald eagles.

Southern Lower Michigan's many garden and nature centers offer views of native flowers and animals as well as many tropical plant collections.

In the Irish Hills, Hidden Lake ardens near Tipton has a plant conservatory for tropical and desert varieties as well as five miles of trails over 620 acres. It is managed by Michigan State University.

Augusta is home of the famous Kellogg Bird Sancturary, also managed by MSU. It features waterfowl display ponds and shelters along beautiful Gull Lake. The grounds were the former estate of cereal king W.K. Kellogg.

Near Ann Arbor, the University of Michigan's Matthaei Botanical Gardens has more than 700 plants and trees native to the state as well as some species from Africa and South America.

Begun in 1899 by the founder of Dow Chemical Co., Midland's Dow Gardens contains more than 200 varieties of plants. Saginaw's Green Point Nature Center is directly across the Tittabawassee River from the Shiawassee National Wildlife Refuge and has 2½ miles of nature trails.

Michigan's cities also have set aside areas for nature lovers.

Could cut traffic death toll by 50%

Auto Club urges mandatory safety belt use law

The Automobile Club of Michigan this week proposed an all-out effort to make safety belt use mandatory in Michigan as a measure which could help reduce the state's traffic death toll by at least 50 percent.

Auto Club President Jack Avignone said the 1.3-million-member organization would direct an education program at the Legislature, Auto Club members and the motoring public in support of a mandatory safety belt use law.

"If a mandatory belt law had been in effect in Michigan, the lives of 423 of the 846 persons killed during the 1970-80 summer holidays could have been saved," Avignone said.

"Findings from our most recent traffic safety study show that drivers and passengers who buckle up could survive a traffic crash with minimal, or no injuries," he added.

The study — "Portrait of Michigan's 15-Year Effort to 'Bring 'Em Back Alive!' on Three Major Summer Holidays" — was unveiled at a special meeting of Auto Club's "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" Committee at Fairlane Manor in Dearborn.

A mandatory safety belt use law is part of the study's five-point program to significatnly reduce traffic deaths in Michigan. The other recommendations include:

- Extending State Police "Operation CARE"-type traffic enforcement programs from freeways to two-lane roads.
- A cracksown on drinking drivers by police, prosecutors and judges.
- Legislation to revoke the licenses of persons who drive on suspended licenses.
- Legislation requiring motorcyclists to drive with headlights on to make them more visible as well as retaining the present motorcycle helmet law.

"Auto Club is concerned that federal studies now show only about 10 percent of drivers in the United States wear safety belts even though their effectiveness in reducing deaths and the severity of accidents has been well documented by research," Avignone said.

Auto Club Holiday News Service records show that of the 71 persons killed in vehicles during the six major summer holidays in 1979-80, 68 (96 percent) were not wearing their safety belts.

Avignone also cited a recent American Seat Belt Council survey which showed substantial savings in heatlh and other accident-related costs in many of the 21 countries with safety belt use laws.

"In Sweden, where belt use rose from 8 to 85 percent in cities and from 33 to 90 percent on highways, fatalities and serious injuries dropped by 47 percent for drivers and by 67 percent for passengers," he said. "Ontario also reported significant reductions in serious injuries after a mandatory belt law was enacted."

Avignone praised the effectiveness of Operation CARE (Combined Accident Reduction Effort) and urged that state, county and local police expand the program to county roads, where 45 percent of Michigan's 1970-79 summer holiday fatal accidents occurred.

"Additional highway traffic patrols now appear in jeopardy because of the recent cutbacks in federal funding for Operation CARE, but they are urgently needed," he said.

In examining both drinking and high-point drivers, Auto Club's study found both to be major causes of fatal traffic accidents.

"We strongly encourage prosecutors and judges to work together in convicting drunk drivers of the original arrest charge, especially if it is a second or third drinking and driving offense," Avignone said.

The study also urged the Legislature to pass a law that would revoke the license of a suspended driver who continues to drive without a license and suggested more severe penalties for habitual traffic offenders.

The problem of motorists not being able to see motorcyclists, resulting in serious injury or fatal accidents, can be eased by requiring bikers to drive with headlights on.

McBride gets facelift

No more potholes

McBride paving gets underway

A $33,000 reconstruction and resurfacing project on McBride Road in Romulus was completed last week with 80 percent of the funding coming from federal and state monies.

Originally used at this location as the Wayne Road exit ramp from the Detroit Industrial Expressway, McBride Road's usage changed after homes were built in the area adjacent to the exit ramp.

Some 20 years ago a new exit ramp, (still in existence) was constructed to alleviate hazardous conditions created by the exiting of high speed traffic onto a local street.

Since the original roadway had been patched and repaired many times, Mayor William Oakley and city officials had negotiated with the state highway department for the reconstruction of the road.

A new three-inch bituminous base and a new wearing surface replaced the top of the original roadway, which was removed during the week-long project.

these students to the workshop not only makes them more experienced, but also exposes them to other ideas and generates the enthusiasm to put out a better book.

Besides the workshop, last year's staff has finished a summer supplement to the 1981 TIGER LORE including graduation, spring sports, senior prom, and other activities that occurred in the spring. This supplement is now being printed and will be available free of charge to those who purchased the 1981 book when it is delivered in September. It will be mailed to all 1981 graduates who purchased a book. The 24 page supplement can be inserted in the student's book.

The new yearbook staff is busy right now asking the merchants in the community to purchase advertisement for the 1982 yearbook.

If anyone would like to purchase advertisement and has not been contacted by Sept. 1, he should contact Deborah Stakenas at the High School at 697-9133.

Yesterday Heritage

Historic homes open doors

Doors of five historic homes will be open for touring by the public Sunday, August 30, as part of Ypsilanti's 1981 Yesteryear Heritage Festival. The tour is sponsored by the Ypsilanti Heritage Foundation.

Begun in 1869 and completed five years later, the stuccoed frame house at 510 Pearl Street is now owned by Jack Harris, Professor of English at Eastern Michigan University. From 1885 until 1939, this was the home of Miss Ada Norton, faculty member at The Normal College. The home has a typically Victorian porch, and a front hall with a fireplace and charming corner staircase.

The first floor bath still has a pedestal tub, and the old-fashioned kitchen has an exposed maple floor. From 1939 until 1974, the house belonged to Henry Morley, owner of the Huron Press, who put the stamp of his English heritage on the garden.

The first brick home built in Ypsilanti, a Greek Revival structure, was constructed for Judge Jacob Larzelere in 1830. Now owned by Dr. William Fennel, it is not known if the structure was originally built as a double house, or was built in two stages. Both apartments in the home feature black walnut staircases. Other interesting features of the home at 202 South Huron Street are the woodwork, original hardware and "Christian" doors, so named because of the cross created by the panels. Bricks for the entire structure may have been imported from France since there were no local brickyards at the time.

Barry and Diane LaRue purchased the home at 504 North Hamilton in 1977 after it had suffered years of neglect and abuse of its historic character. They inherited a backyard filled with beer cans, a broken swing set and a tree growing through rusting beadsprings. The home, built about 1889 in the then popular functional style, is closest to Queen Anne if a speciific identification were needed. The LaRues have refurbished the contoured "bullseye" pine woodwork and floors, located five-panel doors, wall papered and scrounged strange and wounderful items from curbs on trash days for their home. All landscaping has been added since the LaRues' tenure on Hamilton Street.

The 1856 Italianate style home at 415 North Huron Street has long been known as the Lewis House. The home was bought in July, 1905, by Harriet Adelaide Lewis and until recently belonged to her daughter, Evangeline Lewis.

The elegant structure is characterized by a gently sloping roof, deep overhanging eaves supported by ornate brackets, and tall double-hung windows, each with single panes of glass.

The rope-like detailing around the door and over the windows is an unusual variation from the more usual style of ornamentation, which can be seen in the house next door at 411 North Huron Street. The interior rooms preserve many original features, such as ornate plaster cornice moldings, varnished walnut woodwork, and carved marble fireplace mantle.

Outside is an Italianate style tack house of board and batten construction and a hitching post at the front curb. Both house and grounds are now owned and maintained by the Ypsilanti Historical Society.

Carolyn and Gary McKeever presently live in part of what was once one of the grandest hotels between Detroit and Chicago. The Follett House, built in 1859, had its grand opening on July 4 of that year. When the commerce of Ypsilanti shifted from Depot Town to Michigan Avenue, the hotel declined and became five storefronts and many apartments.

The McKeevers bought the fourth storefront in 1975, and began restoration and rehabilitation in the spring of 1981. The first floor will be commercially rented, the McKeevers live on the second floor, and the third and fourth floors are studios for Carolyn and other artists. Inside the apartment is an exposed brick wall and original floors. The tall windows in the third and fourth floors open into Follett Hall, the hotel ballroom. Many traveling musical and theatrical companies entertained Ypsilantians in those elegant surroundings.

Tickets for the tour are $3 for adults, $2 for senior citizens and $1.50 for children 13 and under. They are available at the Ypsilanti Chamber of Commerce, 11 N. Adams St., (313) 482-4920, or during the Heritage festival at booths on the Cross Street bridge and in front of the Ypsilanti Historical Museum, North Huron Street.

Cholesterol study volunteers needed

The University of Minnesota is seeking volunteers to participate in a national study.

The National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute study is being conducted at four large medical centers: the University of Minnesota, The University of Arkansas, the University of Southern California and Lakenau Hosptial in Philadelphia.

The research team is conducting this trial in hopes of determining the relationship of cholesterol lowering to heart disease. The study is seeking participants who have had their first and only heart attack during the past 5 years, are 29 through 64 years of age and free of diabetes, stroke and heart surgery.

Volunteers are being sought at all four of the Hyperlipidemia Study Clinical Centers. For information, persons may call the University of Minnesota Hyperlipidemia Study collect at 612-376-4494.

To appear on the Dean's List a student must achieve a goal point average of 3.5 or more out of a possible 4.0.

WHY A GOLD CROWN?

You normally associate gold crowns with kings or queens. But the average person can have a gold crown also—not on his head but in his mouth. And it will probably be a lot more practical than the king's head piece.

Cast gold crowns cover the cusps (chewing surface) of back teeth entirely as well as three or more other surfaces. They fit over the remaining portion of a prepared tooth. Crowns are used to restore proper tooth form and contours for the correct biting function when much of the tooth is extensively damaged.

Gold is an ideal restorative material for use in reforming the shape and function of a tooth. In fact, of all restorative materials, gold is the strongest and most long-lasting. There are other reasons for the use of gold as well as long-life.

Gold can provide maximum resistance against the forces of chewing on tooth surfaces. Fluids in the mouth cannot affect gold. Gold will not shrink or expand once it has been cemented into the prepared surface. Breakage of the restoration is less likely.

ASK THE CHIROPRACTOR

Dear Dr. Elwart,
What is an adjustment?

An adjustment is a painless "thrust" to the bones in your spine by a Chiropractor's hands. This "thrust" moves the misplaced bones (vertebrae) into their normal position in the spine and removes pressure from the sensitive nerves. This release in pressure allows nerve impulses (or messages) to flow unrestricted to the part of the body being supplied by the nerve that was pinched.

Dr. Shaft,
Can Chiropractic care cure my headaches?

Even though we have had great success with headaches in the past, we do not claim to cure anything. Your body, when working normally, will not have headaches, thus, there is no "normal early morning headaches." What a Chiropractor does is to remove interference by a simple adjustment that could be causing your headaches to occur. Your body sends out warning signals in the form of pain to warn you that there is something wrong, much like a fire alarm sends out loud signals to tell the firemen to put out the fire. It's important to "put out that fire" or remove the interference instead of just taking something to cover up the pain.

In Our Opinion

Air controllers' strike is a fatal mistake

The first nationwide strike by air traffic controllers has set a dangerous precedent.

No amount of bargaining rhetoric can change the fact that the public safety must be considered first and foremost in any dispute involving public service employees. The safety of thousands of air travellers far outweighs any management-union hassling over wages, working conditions, benefits, etc.

Is the risk of even one life worth the price of a negotiating power struggle? Hardly.

Yet, the antics of the air traffic controllers has jeopardized the public safety. Should any disaster occur, these employees and their leaders could have the lives of innocent citizens on their consciences instead of an advantageous settlement. And then how could the picketers justify their walkout?

Public employees, such as police, fire and air controllers, have bargaining rights. They have the same rights as every American to seek fair wages and benefits on their job. Such occupations, however, do not have the right to leave work when that stoppage creates life threatening situations.

Public safety workers, air traffic controllers included, are well aware of their responsibilities when they assume these positions. Their bargaining differences must be solved through negotiations, mediation and arbitration—not through walkouts. That's the law and nobody must consider themselves above the law.

Management and union must solve this dilemma at the bargaining table with around-the-clock talks if necessary. The strike must cease immediately.

Public safety is the real issue in this case. Not money, nor civil penalties, nor threats of job termination.

It's time to remember that fact.

Love Canal revisited?

Love Canal may not be fresh in everyone's mind, but those of us who remember, remember the sordid tale it unfolded. Chemicals dumped into land and water inevitably find their way into human bodies.

It is a lesson that modern man is learning, and is reacting quickly to correct.

Therefore, it was indeed incredible to learn that under our very nose, a Canton Township landfill owner was planning to expand his operation and possibly bring in hazardous wastes.

Canton officials quickly reacted, and so did many of the surrounding and affected communities. They want to make sure, without any doubt, that what is dumped in the land operated by the Michigan Waste Systems Inc. will not in any way harm the human body or environment.

In the past it would have been difficult to prove just what damage these dumps caused, but thanks to modern technology and with the resources the governmental agencies have, it shouldn't be too difficult to analyze the composition of the waste.

We urge community leaders to move very cautiously in permitting or approving any application. We don't believe that people should over-react, however.

But Canton should not become the dumping ground that can poison the environment and humans.

Police chief answers new deparment's critics

I take exception to the disgruntled persons' letters published in the July 22nd and 29th edition of The Associated Newspapers. This letter, in my opinion, reflects a false image of the men and women of the Romulus Police Department.

Further, and of more concern, the letter may cause some citizens of Romulus to form a wrong impression of the city's Police Department.

These letters state that it took 1 hour and 55 minutes for a Romulus Police Car to respond to a larceny. The officer "displayed a careless attitude," other remarks, and concluded he felt he was talking with a "Cowboy from the Wild West."

Further, more unkind remarks about not being professional and experienced.

I feel the letters were unfair inasmuch to my knowledge no one in the Romulus Police Department has been contacted regarding these matters.

The Mayor, members of the City Council, and Department Supervisors are trying very hard to make the Department a professional and efficient operation.

We have received many compliments from the citizens of Romulus, as well as people that do not live in the city.

These compliments span a wide range from appearance and courtesy to prompt and efficient service. I welcome constructive criticism and will discuss any inadequacies that may result in carrying out our enforcement duties.

The Romulus Police Department started full-time with eleven (11) patrol officers, which averaged one (1) car per shift.

If it did actually take 1 hour and 55 minutes to respond to a call, were the cars (if more than one was available) tied up on a serious crime or a bad accident? How many runs were called in prior to this one?

Rather than being criticized in the newspaper, I would like to have the opportunity to look into these incidents and try to determine if the criticism is warranted.

The members of the Romulus Police Department are very interested in the city, desire to be members of an efficient Police organization, and want to provide the citizens of Romulus with the best Police services available.

They are all certified officers who were members of many Police organizations which include the Wayne County Sheriff, Detroit Police and State Police. Due to the nature of the occupation, and exposure to many situations, we have made mistakes.

We will probably make more mistakes and be criticized again, however, I want the citizens of Romulus to know we are trying to form a Police Department they can be proud of and if we do not resolve a matter correctly, I would be happy to discuss it rather than reading about it in the newspaper.

From Germany, with love

By TOM MOORADIAN

"Taxes. Taxes...they have become ridiculous. We can't live because the taxes are so high."

If the above sounds like an American sounding off, well that particular quote belongs to a Ford of Germany employee, Siegfried Konietzko who is visiting the United States and his brother, Lothar.

"Taxes are getting...astounding," the slim, 59-year-old Bremen native continues. "Life had been good in Germany, but it has been going downhill for some time. We have been feeling the pinch for the past two years."

Konietzko said one of the problems with the German economic system is that there is a greater amount of influx of foreign workers who have contracts to work, "leaving the Germans without jobs.

"And while this is going on, the oil countries have so much money that they are buying up our country."

It sounds familiar, doesn't it.

But the economic unrest isn't setting the stage for a neo-Nazis takeover, says Konietzko. "The neo-Nazis are not taken seriously in our country. We don't tolerate them. Like we don't tolerate the terrorists. It's too bad that all the countries can't act and react to the terrorists like Germany has."

Konietzko will be visiting Wayne and the area for the next four weeks and plans to get in the sights of Detroit's Renaissance Center, "which he has heard much about."

"I have not noticed much changes here since my last visit 10 years ago," he pointed out, "but I feel America is on the right track with having Reagan as president. Germany respects Reagan — we were not too sure where we stood with Carter.

"And, believe me, we Germans would like a person like Reagan to be the head of our government. We are, like you were during the Carter time, a nation not going anywhere.

"Germans do not like that feeling."

The father of two grown children, Konietzko sees the "Third World" countries as the key to world peace - and war.

"If these countries can't find a way to solve their problems and continue their dependence upon the West and the Iron Curtain countries - the schism will become greater between democracies and dictorships.

"And what Hitler almost accomplished will become a reality."

And what was that?

"The end of the world as we know it today."

The Hillenbrand Report

Look what's happening to the county dump

By BERNARD F. HILLENBRAND

What do the counties of Washakie, Uinta, Wyo., Outagamie, Wis., Monongalis, W. Va., Calhoun, Fla., and Brazoria, Texas have in common with the counties of Haakon, S.D., Venango, Pa., Coos, Ore., Pattawatomie, Okla., Scioto, Ohio, Currituck, N.C., Nye, Nev., and Yalobusha, Miss.?

They share one recent distinction with the counties of Yellow Medicine, Minn., Charlevoix, Mich., Waldo, Maine, Vigo, Ind., and the parishes of Calcasieu, Lafourche and Caddo, La.

They are among 1,209 local governments in 49 states named in the first installment of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (E.P.A.) open dump inventory because they harbor leaking, disease-ridden, burning, flooding, gaseous, stinking or otherwise unsanitary open dumps, aptly titled, for the purpose of this study, as "promiscuous."

Recently published in the Federal Register, the annual inventory is a requirement of the 1976 Resource Conservation and Recovery Act. It is conducted voluntarily by states, who are charged with regulating solid waste. Federal grants to help states with this work were accepted by all but New Mexico, whose open dumps, therefore, have not been aired.

Martha Madison of E.P.A. estimates about 6,000 of the nation's 360,000 solid waste disposal facilities have been surveyed. About a sixth of those surveyed are creating serious environmental or health problems for their communities. Violations include location in flood plains, surface or ground water contamination, interference with endangered species, problems with application to land, disease, air quality and safety.

Although specific regulations in the act are likely to change under the Reagan administration, many of the worst dumps will still have to close or undergo expensive modification such as installation of systems to collect run-off and wells to monitor seepage (leachate), clay caps, liners and daily covering.

In all, Americans produce about 154 million tons of solid waste a year, 1,400 pounds a person. It is a burdensome, expensive problem getting rid of it. According to the National Solid Waste Management Association, a trade group, it is an $8 to $10 billion industry. About $6 billion is generated or received by private businesses. Richard Hanneman, of the association, believes it will cost billions more to dispose of all that waste properly.

Traditionally, local governments have not gone into the garbage collection and disposal business willingly, Hanneman says. He estimates 73 percent of the tonnage is collected by private carriers, 27 percent by public agencies.

But garbage collection is a very visible service — a place where politicans can rise or fall. The way a community handles it, therefore is a political decision. Until lately, efficiency and cost-effectiveness have not been prized. Faced with reduced tax dollars and mounting gasoline prices, however, some communities have cleaned up dramatically. Rochester, N.Y. is in the process of making massive changes: buying new equipment, reducing fleet size and labor, and restructuring routes. In one year the city will slash its refuse collection budget by 28 percent, saving $2.4 million.

In contrast, with collection operations, only a third of the landfills licensed before 1970 were privately owned, but 45 percent of those started after that time as commercial. Hanneman said the trend is due to increasing costs of developing environmentally sound landfills. "Todays landfills are a million dollar investment," he said.

Yet solid waste disposal still isn't a "high priority" item on most government budgets, according to E.P.A.'s Madison. "Even in Congress, air and water pollution projects tend to get funded before solid waste disposal," she said.

Now communities are forced to confront their own waste — and not just because of the federal watchdog.

Public officials in most urban areas are struggling with the fact that the most accessible open acreage is already used, while the demand for sites increases. New York's largest, at Fresh Kills on Staten Island, is reaching capacity, as are those here in Washington. Atlantic, N.J., whose population will double by 1990, plans to close or upgrade most of its existing landfill sites within six years at a cost of $8.8 million.

Finding new sites for landfills is a critical problem. In a 1977 study E.P.A. found a handfull of counties that had "successfully" chosen new locations. The county of San Bernadino was one such site. Even there, the selection process was riddled with controversy.

Site selection and operation of resource recovery plants or transfer stations is no better. Of 63 resource recovery or energy recovery facilities planned or constructed in the United States, only 21 are in operation and 19 are under "shakedown" operation, or closed. There are 200 such facilities in Europe, and planners are still predicting a profitable future for them here. While resource recovery reduced the volume of solid waste, there is still residue to be buried, and local citizens must still agree on where to put it.

In rural areas space is not as much of a problem, but those cummunities with rapidly growing populations face conflict when they try to improve service by closing old, poorly maintained dumps, for these spots are often well-established social gathering places. One New England radio station supposedly plays "Going to the Dump" music on Saturday mornings. For communities that have this concept of "their dump," changing past disposal practices can be difficult.

One of the most successful methods used to improve rural garbage disposal is the use of small containers that are emptied into a collection vehicle. Since it was experimented with in Chilton County, Ala., the plan has been widely copied and is now accepted by over 150 communities in 14 states.

Another success features urban and rural cooperation. Philadelphia, and Somerset County, Pa., for instance, are reclaiming Somerset's stripmined land with sludge from the city's plant.

So what is happening to the county dump? It is changing, and must continue to change, in response to disposal needs and realities, and to our increasing national understanding of the problems "promiscuous" solid waste management can cause. The result will be better landfills, recycling and resource recovery, composting, and cost-efficient collection systems, for garbage isn't just garbage — anymore.

On landfill expansion plans

EDITOR — Over the last few weeks I have read with interest of a protest by the City of Wayne over the proposed expansion of Woodland Meadows.

Woodland Meadows is a pretty name for a landfill located on Hannan Rd., which is the borderline between Wayne and Canton Township.

Your paper reported that the City of Wayne set its Attorney and its Community Development Director to the July 27th Department of Natural Resources (D.N.R.) hearing on this matter.

These two city officials were sent into battle with empty rifles. They had no geological proof to support their claims of this project being hazardous to the citizens of Wayne.

The Representatives of Michigan Waste Systems Inc. (the owners) have studies saying that the new dump will be safe.

As a Wayne citizen who lives within a 1½ mile radius of the proposed landfill I don't understand why our city officials were not as well armed as the owners.

I hope by the time this letter appears in print that our City Council has finally voted to fund a geological study.

This hopefully would provide our side the much needed facts to support our case against the landfill expansion.

Not only as a concerned citizen but as an employee of a chemical company I am aware of the possible danger connected with hazardous and toxic waste disposal.

The problem is not just for the residents of Louis Savage Garfield Park subdivision but the possible hazard to all of Wayne through run off into Rouge River's water and the contamination of humans, wildlife and vegetation by the wind's spreading of toxins for miles in any direction.

I realize there are rules and procedures for the correct handling of the waste by-products of our industries but in the past we have all seen many cases where the rules have been disregarded or bent to meet the needs of a company or person.

The question is whether we need this landfill or not. We need landfills for the dumpting of materials as paper, wood and used building materials and trash. What we don't need is another Love Canal in Wayne's backyard.

I believe the D.N.R. would be well advised to place toxic waste landfills in sparsely populated areas and not in densely populated Wayne County. I hope the citizens of Wayne and its neighbors will join in this protest against the expansion of Woodland Meadows.

Ford's picnic is cancelled

EDITOR — Due to a change in policy by the new management of New Liberty Park, and a breakdown in communications with the committee, we were unable to obtain the park on the date set for this year's Annual Congressman Bill Ford Birthday Picnic.

The Picnic has become an annual tradition of family participation in an old-fashioned summer picnic setting, and we are very sorry we could not make alternate arrangements for this summer's event.

We genuinely appreciate all the hard work done in preparation to make this year's event a success. A search is already underway to obtain a new location for next year's picnic, and with our continued support, we expect it to be bigger and better than ever.

A distasteful job experience

EDITOR — I am writing this letter to share a recent experience of mine in hopes that it may bring about a change. I am a woman that recently took a job with an area merchant temporily until my transfer with a major company came through.

This job was not my first working experience that's for sure, but it was one of my worst experiences.

During the time I worked there my self confidence and pride were rapidly taken from me. My experiences are not the reason for this letter.

The job was temporary for me, I had the promise of a good job in the near future and I didn't have to work there to survive.

My concern was for my fellow workers. I observed them come and go. They were fired or quit, but worse than that suffered the embarrassment of being shrieked at or constantly criticized. With any employer and employee relationship there are people that will not give their all or will only do what has to be done to get by.

But what about the very young person, on their first job, eager to please, but constantly picked apart and ultimately fired, or the older worker who really needs a job and takes the extra step, does more than is asked of him, so thankful to have a job? Do you realize what an employer like this can do to them?

In times of high unemployment such as this it is especially defeating to be treated like this, dehumanizing in fact. When you leave the employment of this particular merchant and everyone does sooner or later, you don't have a lot of pride or guts that you need to get out there and go job hunting.

I encourage this merchant and others to take a look at themselves and ask if you are being fair and treating your worthwhile employees as you would like to be treated in the same situation?

Prisoner seeks pen pals

DEAR ROMULUS — I am writing to you because I was born in Romulus, but my parents moved away when I was in the fourth grade. By the time I was 16 I had lost both of my parents. I lived in a foster home until I was 18. I am now incarcerated in prison and have never felt more lonely in my life.

I don't have anyone to write to nor anyone to write to me. I believe that some of my relatives still live in or around Romulus and I thought that if maybe you could find the kindness in your heart to publish my letter in your newspaper maybe some of my relatives or someone who knew them might see it and write to me.

I would also like to correspond with anyone as a pen-pal who lives in or around Romulus. I am a white male but loneliness picks no certain age. And if anyone who is lonely reads my letter and who would like a friend to share a smile with from time to time please write and I will answer. Thank you very much for your time and understanding sir.

Another view of seniors' trip

EDITOR — In your July 29th "Your Opinions" section, there appeared a letter from a George D. Kloster, with the heading "Senior Tour Disappointing". Mr. Kloster stated that 38 Senior Citizens boarded the bus from Westland. There happened to be 64 Senior Citizens from Westland and 2 from Livonia that boarded two buses from Westland. The bus that Mr. Kloster was on, left with 44 people aboard, including their group leader, Mr. Frank Mannarelli. The other bus went to Romulus, and then to Melvindale, picking up Senior Citizens at those stops.

The picture Mr. Kloster painted in his letter about the bus was over exaggerated. Adventure Travel did have a representative, Mr. Sam Aiello, aboard the second bus (he boarded at Melvindale). Our representative called me upon arrival at the Elgin House. He checked the bus out with Mr. Frank Mannarelli, there was a cracked window, and a pad off an arm rest. There are 47 seats on this bus. The bus driver did stop and bought toilet paper. Since this was Mr. Klosters first chartered bus trip, he is not aware that all bus company buses do not carry water in the sinks.

A window on the bus did come ajar, but not the door, it was taped until they arrived at the Elgin House. Upon arrival, Sam Aiello telephoned me with the bus problems in detail. I talked to Gary Sampson who called our bus broker, Dennis Anderson. Gary told Dennis if that bus wasn't fixed at once, that they better send another bus or he would contact any company and send one out. The bus was repaired, including a hole found in a hose in the ventilating system. After the bus was repaired, Sam Aiello, Frank Mannarelli and another senior citizen from that bus, inspected and took a drive to check out the bus. I was notified, that the repairs had been made. The bumpers were not falling off as Mr. Kloster states in his letter.

Westland senior citizens have gone three times in two years to the Elgin House, Romulus and a group from Allen Park, two times in two years.

Since this was Mr. Kloster's first bus trip with us, he doesn't know that we have always provided good trips with good buses. It was our misfortune that the bus company sent us a bus that is not up to our standards.

I have bookings from groups for next year that have gone with us this year and last year.

Mr. Kloster had talked to Gary Sampson and myself, several weeks ago. He demanded compenstation from Gary Sampson, and if he didn't receive it, he would put us out of business.

Mr. Kloster said he was charged a high dollar (179.00) for the trip, but at the same time that he was at the Elgin House, another group from Dearborn was there, and paid $219.00 for the same trip.

I asked Mr. Kloster if he had a bad time at the Elgin House and he said he had an enjoyable time. In fact, he said, he was thinking of taking his wife, son or daughter and grand children to the Elgin House this summer. I told him it was expensive in July and August and he replied that he knew this and probably it would cost him $1,500.00, but said it was worth it. I ask you, does that sound like he was getting ripped off.

He was told that we would look into this matter with the bus company and as soon as something could be worked out, he would be notified.

Gary Sampson, Dennis Anderson (who is the bus broker), and myself met with the owner of Great Lakes Bus Company, Major Finch III regarding the complaints. Major Finch III said he was going to give Mr. Mannarelli's group a trip to Saunders Village in Ohio but has to work out a day when one of his buses is free.

Because July and August are very busy times for bus companies, we had set a date — August 4th — but had to change the date to August 11th. Letters have been sent out to the senior citizens involved. Our contact is with Frank Mannarelli, group leader, and not Mr. Kloster, who seems to want the lime light.

I am still doing trips with senior citizen groups. We will gladly furnish names of groups to call that are booking with us over a period of years.

Reason for worker's apathy?

EDITOR — Citizens of Westland, don't blame the city workers for the lack of work that is being done in your area.

It is not by their choice. Some time back, "the big boys" started a program of assigning work sheets to the workers to do in one day.

But what they are given is work that could be done in 2- to -4 hours, and not a full day. But, if they come back to get more work, then, they are in the dog house.

This causes a shortage in the city coffers, because you are paying the same amount of money, or more, with inflation, but putting a lid on the amount of work and lessening what is done by the workers.

This is a waste of taxpayers money.

Now, I say, if our brain trusts at City Hall can't get their act together, then I think it's time they start packing and move it somewhere else. Say, like the unemployment line.

In defense of Romulus police

EDITOR — I wish to reply to the "Concerned Romulus Resident" who felt he had to respond to the Romulus Police Department.

First of all, I wish to state, that I have worked at the new Police Station site since long before they opened. Not as a Police Officer, but as Maintenance Man for the city, and I have not seen all of these negative things that this "Concerned" Person has. I feel that the people of Romulus must take into consideration that this new department is working with a system that is only partially complete, there are alot of things that will go much smoother when they have full use of all their equipment.

I think we should give the Officers enough time to prove themselves before we pass judgment on them. I don't believe that Mayor William Oakley and the Council hired this new department because he felt it would be "better" than the Sheriff's patrol, but because it was necessary for the welfare and safety of Romulus, as the County's situation forced them to cut back on road patrol service.

I feel we should pull behind them, and give them a chance, instead of sitting back, criticizing the job they are trying to do. I only hope that the Police department has not prejudged the Citizens of Romulus, the way that some of its citizens have prejudged them

Reflections

I believe in prayer

I believe in prayer. That is what a lot of writers are beginning their articles with. . . I believe in prayer. Then they go on to say that even though they believe in it, still they are disturbed that Congress is mulling over legislation to allow prayers in public schoolrooms.

I honestly don't know what they are so disturbed about. I was a lot more disturbed when Madeline Murray O'Hair got up on her broomstick and swept prayer right out of the schoolrooms.

What I got incensed about was not really the fact that prayer was no longer going to be a part of education, but that one woman, who, somehow, had developed an all consuming hatred of Jesus Christ was able to force her emotional, irrational ideas on a whole country.

When she screamed about her rights, and the rights of her children not to have to listen to prayers, she was totally ignoring the rights of others who embracced the philosophy of prayers in the schools.

Ohter than being forced to conform to O'Hair's rantings, I didn't really get to harried over the whole thing. I don't know how much good prayer in school did, at least the kind of prayer they are obviously talking about. I don't think that evenmadeline Murray O'Hair could take away the REAL prayer which many people, including little kids, live with, even if she brought Satans pitchfork along with her, to dig it out. The kind of prayer she was talking about couldn't have harmed her kids either, for I will bet you that they never listened to those prayers, the same way that kids whose parents believed in prayer in school, didn't listen to them.

I remember those days when I was a little kid, and the sun would be shining down bright on the schoolyard, and the swings were swinging higher than usual, causing one to be almost able to grab a bit of cloud fluff, and then the bells would ring.

Out of the swings would fly arms and legs and limber bodies, and as they landed, the gravel of the schoolyard would reach up and make its marks on knees and elbows, but we had to get in that line fast. . . before the school doors opened.

Pushing and shrieking we waited for them to open, with teachers going up and down the line admonishing us to be quiet. And then the double doors flew open and the smell of varnish from the gleaming halls, mixed with eraser dust and the teacher's perfume met us and we knew that school was about ready to begin for that day. . . and for every day, forever!

Roll call came first, and then the teacher sat down behind her desk (or his, whichever year it was), opened the Bible and read the Bible verses. I had one teacher that fascinated me during Bible reading, for she clasped her pudgy little white hands together behind the Bible, and halfway through the verse, would somehow untangle them, find a pencil and tap the sparkling diamond in its Tiffany setting, in rythm to her voice. Sometimes I went to sleep.

After the Bible verses came the prayer. Most of my teachers gave a brief little prayer imploring God to help us in our work that day, which I thought was awfully good of them, and actually, was probably a pretty good deal, to have someone else asking him, besides just me. I don't know how the other kids felt. Most of them were too busy passing notes, or kicking each other under the desks, or giggling behind their palms. I don't mean to imply I was the only good kid in there, but I did have a pretty awesome respect for God, and besides any kid that had grown up with a mother who walked hand in hand with HIM, knew better than to be frivolous during prayer, no matter who was doing the praying.

However, I honestly don't think the Bible reading and the prayer in school, coming from the teachers, did me any particular good. But then, I don't think it could have possibly done anyone any harm. So if the majority of people WANT prayer in schools, so be it. If not, then so be that.

For one can never induce REAL prayer from outside, neither can one take away REAL prayer. No legilsation could ever have made me lift my head from my desk, when as a young teenager I prayed to pass the geometry test I was so frightened to take. And I passed. I believe it was because of the prayer, because I sure didn't know much about geometry.

On the other hand, nobody could MAKE me pray if I didn't want to.

I think the legislators may be wasting their time, unless it might be helpful to vindicate what Madeline Murray O'Hair did that time several years ago. Taking away the RIGHTS of others to FORCE her rights upon us.

Turn-about-is-fair-play, so they say.

The perfect wedding

When It comes to weddings, I am an incurable romantic. I read the wedding pages from top to bottom. I learn everything I can learn about the happy couples. How old they are, where they went to school, where they work, what they wore, where they're going on their honeymoon, where they're going to live when they settle in.

I try to deduce, from the scant information at hand, whether or not their marriage will survive. I usually decide, since I know I'll never meet them, that they have a pretty good chance. Unless they are very young or very poor. Then I give them 50/50.

And now, after the Great Nuptial Day, I know everything there is to know about Charles and Diana. I know how old they are. Where they went to school. Where they work. What they wore. Where they're going on their honeymoon, and where they're going to live once they settle in.

I know, too, without having to deduce, that their marriage will survive. It has to. It's the law or something. They're stuck with each other for better or worse, in sickness and in health, 'til death do they part."

I can also say without doubt that it was the most beautiful wedding I've ever attended. The 25 foot train, excessive as it was, was the most beautiful I've ever seen and absolutely necessary for the exquisite excesses of St. Paul's Cathedral. The coaches and the carriages and the horses were absolutely stunning.

It was Camelot.

If there was a flaw in Camelot, it had to be the cost. I have never watched a wedding without thinking about the cost, and this one was surely no exception. Even though I watched it all from 4:30 A.M. to finish (including the every-hour-on-the-hour specials put on in the evening by all three networks), I couldn't help but think about Belfast and Liverpool and the poor of the world who could have been fed with the money it cost to put on that one day show.

Still, the fascination was there, wasn't it?

• I marveled at the civility of the British people who stood at curbside all day without complaining about crowds or lack of "facilities" or the fact that they couldn't see anything.

• I marveled at how Lady Diana's father - stroke or no - looked the perfect picture of the bewildered Father of the Bride.

• I marveled at the marvels of St. Paul's Cathedral — and how no other monarch, save one, long, long ago, had ever chosen it over Westminster Abbey.

• I marveled at how similar Charles and Diana's actual ceremony was to our own 25 years ago this month. And at how Diana struck "obey" and inserted "cherish", just as I had — 25 years ago.

• I marveled at how, every time I looked at Queen Elizabeth, I "saw" Carol Burnett — but I could look at Prince Philip and never "see" Harvey Corman.

• I couldn't help but laugh at that sweet little Queen Mother, who looked a little, well.. "dotty", grinning all over the place when the rest of the family looked so glum.

• I felt a little sorry for the Opera Star from New Zealand who confessed such terror at performing sans costume (but in street clothes) before such an enormous audience — and then turned out to be soo boring. (Maybe she should have stuck with "sans costume".)

Heaven help the prospective bride right now. After seeing that wedding, nothing on this earth would be good enough.

Still all weddings are beautiful, aren't they? All brides are beautiful, all grooms are handsome. All gowns are gorgeous, all cakes are spectacular. It's just the way weddings are.

Everybody wished every bride and groom the perfect wedding — for them. The perfect wedding is just the perfect start. But that is not to say that the perfect wedding has to bankrupt everyone in sight. No, indeed.

For example, if you can't get St. Paul's Cathedral, there are beautiful churches everywhere. And if you can't get a beautiful church, may I suggest a field of daisies — with God's own sky above?

And how about the something borrowed being — Voila! — the wedding gown? What else is a slightly used wedding gown good for, anyway? Whatever happened to marvelous old gowns being pulled out of trunks for daughters or nieces or friends to wear?

Every wedding should be as beautiful as it can possibly be. The most beautiful music should be selected (then put on tape if real trumpets and choir boys are out), the most eloquent minister should be chosen, and the most cherished of friends should be invited. That's all.

That's enough.

Because the real purpose of the wedding, besides making the whole thing legal, is to make memories.

Twenty-five years from now the couples in question will never remember that the gown was borrowed — only how beautiful the bride looked in it. They will never remember that the music was taped — only how the lumps formed in their throats when they heard it. They will never remember what flavor the cake was or how it was decorated — only that they fed each other great chunks of it and it all fell apart and they laughed and laughed...

What they will remember most is the love they felt and how it was shared with any by friends and family ... and all the rest — unless it's intent was to make a beautiful memory — will have been for naught.

Mobile home living:

An alternative to conventional housing

ROMULUS — In these days of crippling interest rates and impossible prices, it's still possible to own your own home in the suburbs for less than $20,000 — a home in a condominium-like community with a clubhouse and pool and no property taxes. How? By purchasing a previously-owned mobile home.

Don't even think of calling them trailers any more. They come as large as a small house — up to 1,950 square feet - with central air conditioing, built-in washers and dryers, wall-to-wall carpeting, screened porches, decks and sunken bathtubs.

They appreciate in value just like a house. A home which may have sold for $8,000 10 years ago today may be worth more than $14,000. They last just as long as conventional houses and in many cases are built to higher standards than most communities require in a standard house.

A brokering system for previously owned mobile homes developed by Global Mobile Homes in largely credited with doubling the value of such homes over the past five years. Global's multiple listings service is just like that offered by real estate dealers. Global's 22 brokerage offices in the Detroit area have sold 2,100 previously owned mobile homes in the four years since the service was established.

"For many people, a mobile home is the only way they can get started in the housing market," says Beverly Fischer, Global's broker in the Chateau Huron mobile home park in Romulus.

"Newlyweds, divorced people, singles and senior citizens all get into it for different reasons. Some of them buy to build equity, then move to a conventional house when they can afford it. Some are looking for apartment-type living but with more privacy and a chance to decorate like they want. Some are here because they like the neighborhood activities and conveniences."

For Terrie Mayotte, 27, buying a mobile home meant new independence for herself and her daughter, 9.

"I was so tired of apartment living," she says. "What I like about this is that I can do what I want with it. I don't have to worry about any managers coming in and telling me I 'Can't do this' and 'Can't do that'."

Terry paid $11,000 for her 910-square-foot home, putting a $2,260 deposit down and paying 18 percent interest over 10 years. She has unusual loan - a simple interest loan that will apply more money to her equity early in the loan period.

Most mobile homes are financed on a retail installment contract, much like a car. Interest rates on such loans are currently close to those being charged for new home mortgages, but, as mortgage rates rise, retail installment contracts may prove to be a more economical loan, since their interest rates are capped by law.

Having their first baby meant it was time for Jerry and Patricia Wollun to look for a conventional home. It took them only three and a half months to sell their mobile home, which they had bought, used, for $8,250 four and half years ago. They sold it for $14,200.

"It was a starter home for us," Jerry says. "We had to invest in something instead of just paying rent."

"We loved it," Patricia adds. "We were in an apartment for three years. But the mobile home was our own place — we planted flowers and fixed it up.

"I hate leaving it," she says.

It took 25 years of apartment living before Raymond and Eunice Dyer, who are in their 60's, settled down and bought a mobile home. Raymond's job as an iron worker took him all over the country in his early years but now he's found his niche and he's planning to stay.

"I'll never move again," Eunice vows.

The Dyers paid $9,800 in cash for their 910-foot home, located in an adult section of Chateau Huron. About 60 percent of the 699 units are for adults, while the other 40 percent accommodate families with children. Most of the used homes being sold there were installed nine years ago, when the park was begun. Newer homes are found in the section which was added on two years ago.

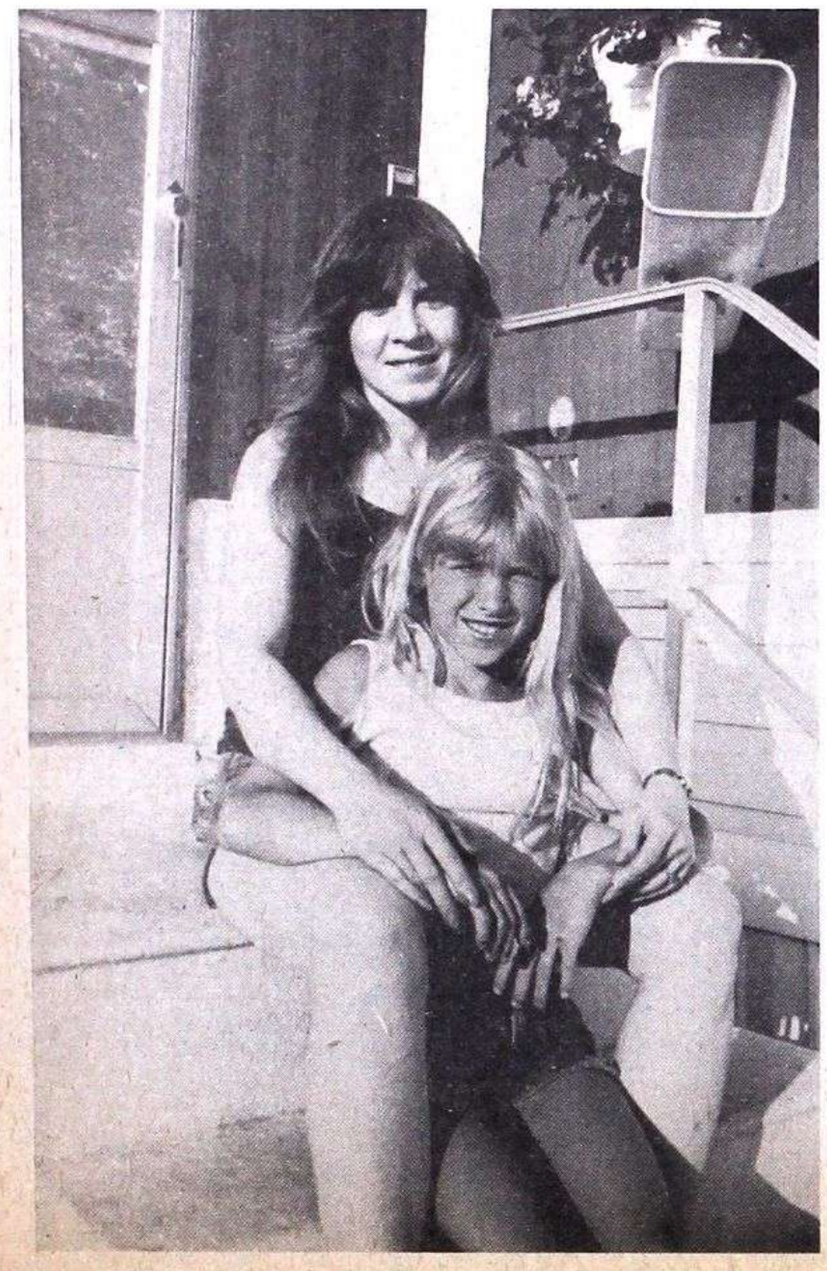
Newer homes, which sold for $11,000 to $14,500 new are now going for $17,000 to $21,000. Homes in the older section of the park, which brought $8,500 to $10,000 new now sell for $14,000 to $20,000.

"Sometimes I think mobile home living is the best kept secret in town," says Bev Fischer. "People don't expect these places to be so big and luxurious. But once they see them, they're convinced."

Fischer herself lives in a mobile home.

"When my husband first got transferred here, we looked at regular homes," she says. "But even the nice ones weren't necessarily in nice neighborhoods. So we bought a double-wide right here in the park. My husband said it was just temporary. Now he says he'll never leave.

"And I wouldn't have it any other way."



Real freedom

tying a previously owned mobile me gave Terri Mayotte a chance build equity in a home, a private place for herself and her daughter and the freedom to decorate as she pleases.

State Supreme Court may get Lucas case

Wayne County may ask the State Supreme Court to rule on an injunction sought against Sheriff William Lucas to prohibit continued spending for the road patrol unit which has been eliminated from the budget.

Both visiting Judge Harvey Moes from Hillsdale County and the State Court of Appeals have declined to rule, although the Appeals Court ordered Moes to decide within 20 days.

In other action, the Public Safety and Judiciary Committee of the Board of Commissioners, denied a request from Sheriff Lucas for 41 more positions to temporarily staff the jail annex. He was granted a 90-day extension for 34 existing positions, however.

Lucas was also authorized $2000 for insurance protection for boats in his marine division, but a $21000 request for insurance for 99 vehicles in the automobile fleet was referred to the Ways and Means Committee without recommendation pending reports from the County Board of Auditors and Office of Corporation Counsel.

'Arthur' ranks as film rarity

"Arthur" From Orion Pictures, released through Warner Bros. Written and directed by Steve Gordon. Starring Dudley Moore, Liza Minnelli, John Gielgud. Rated "PG."

By J. T. YURKO
Special to Playtime

"Arthur" refers to Arthur Bach—a guy who's very rich, very spoiled, and a very large consumer of alcoholic beverages—which is to say he's a lush.

After all, what else is there to do at night when he's already played with his train set all day?

But even into this dreamy existence reality enters. His father demands he marry a socialite girl or he'll cut off his Scotch money—roughtly about 750 million bottles. . . er. . . dollars.

Life gets even tougher when he falls for a shoplifter from Queens, New York, who works as a waitress in a restaurant Arthur's chauffeur wouldn't even go to. Dilemmas, dilemmas.

Choosing between wealth and romance is never an easy task. Soap operas can maintain the trauma for months on end, but the process of deciding between the girl and the gold has never been funnier than in this film. Rich or poor, in love or a devout celibate, Arthur will make you laugh.

Writing and directing a film reminiscent of a 1930's screwball comedy, Steve Gordon, late of such TV shows as "Barney Miller" and "Chico and the Man," delivers a film that is something of a rarity in today's film market. Imagine, here's a comedy film that has no food fights, and doesn't come from the single-shot repeater pen of Neil Simon or the eternally hapless but comedic lamentations of Woody Allen.

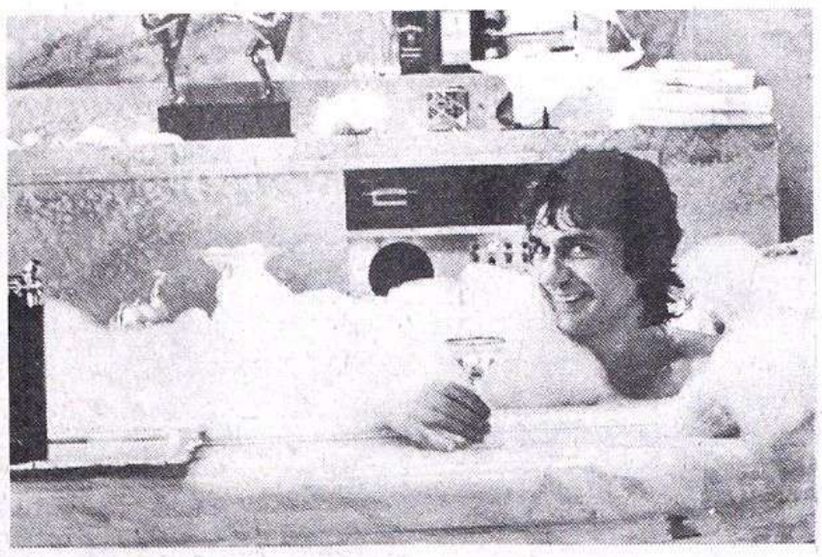
As Arthur, Dudley Moore brings much of the same character to this film he portrayed in "10." There, he was entering male menopause and wondering what to do with his life, and his problem here is much the same, although he's a bit younger and much tipsier.

Liza Minnelli plays the nobody waitress/aspiring actress who thinks a Rolls Royce is a special kind of buttered pastry.

Much of the weight of the film falls on the diminutive shoulders of Dudley Moore, but he shows that he is 'Moore' than up to the task. At times his lush is a bit too lushy, but he is always lovable.

Running away with the film hands down, however, is John Gielgud. As Moore's butler, he is droll to a polished, sarcastic perfection—a master practitioner of how to deliver any line, funny or serious—and he alone is worth the price of admission.

MARQUEE



Cinematic hits

Dudley Moore (above) portrays a very rich, very spoiled lush in the comedy "Arthur." Director John Carpenter's futuristic adventure yarn, "Escape from New York" has its share of humor and thrills (below). Both films are worth seeing this summer.

Original concept works in 'Escape'

"Escape from New York" From Avco-Embassy Pictures. Directed by John Carpenter. Produced by Debra Hill. Starring Kurt Russell, Lee Van Cleef and Isaac Hayes. Rated "R."

By STEVE WALZ
Special to Playtime

John Carpenter is best known for his gory cinematic horror flick "Halloween," which was made on a relatively miniscule budget yet became the most successful independent flick of all time.

Carpenter returns this summer with a comic strip, futuristic adventure yarn called "Escape From New York," complete with a multi-million dollar budget and an all-star cast.

During the last few years of the 20th century, New York City has been transformed into an island of horrors. The bridges are mined, the waterways are all but impenetrable, and the Statue of Liberty is serving as a police fortress.

As luck would have it, the President of the United States (Donald Pleasence) is hijacked in mid-flight and is forced to escape via a pod, which lands right in the middle of Manhattan's no-man's land. Police chief Bob Hauk (Lee Van Cleef) must rescue the President, but he is at a loss on how to approach the daring operation—until he summons war hero turned hardened convict, Snake Plissken (Kurt Russell).

Hauk offers Snake his freedom in return for the safe and swift return of the chief executive. The alternative is death, since Snake has been secretly injected with a serum that will make him explode in 24 hours.

Plissken begrudgingly accepts but promises to pulverize Hauk if and when he gets the chance. After he glides into Manhattan, Snakes links up with some of his allies who, as a team, must combat an assortment of crazies and the infamous Duke of New York (Isaac Hayes). It's a race against time and Snake is losing the battle until...

"Escape from New York" is a unique story which has its share of humor and thrills. Kurt Russell's interpretation of Snake Plissken is part James Bond, part Gary Cooper and part Popeye. There's enough of the Snake character to be explored, perhaps, in future sequels.

Total cinematic victory eludes Carpenter because there are times when "Escape from New York" becomes too cynical of the future. Too much of anything is a detriment. Nevertheless, "Escape from New York" is an original concept which should enjoy generous box-office receipts.

Broadway musical gets extended run

Romulus square dancing class for seniors slated

If you're a senior citizen and interested in square dancing, the Romulus Parks and Recreation Department would like to hear from you.

The recreation department is organizing a square dancing class scheduled to begin on August 17 and held from 4:40 to 6:30 p.m. at the Senior Center, 36515 Bibbins Street.

State museums are worth visiting

Michiganians can peer into the future at the Space Center in Jackson or review the past by visiting any of the state's other fine museums, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Located on the Jackson Community College campus, the Michigan Space Center is housed in a gold geodesic dome with a $7-million, 83-foot-long Redstone rocket outside.

Inside, an open, 83-foot orange and white parachute used to bring one of the Apollo spacecraft safely down to sea forms a ceiling for the Astro-Theatre, where daily space movies describe the U.S. space program in detail.

The Michigan Historical Museum in Lansing features a "Walk Through Time" exhibit which traces the state's historic and prehistoric periods to the geological era which created Michigan's two peninsulas. The exhibit includes artifacts, photographs, maps and audiovisual materials.

Automobiles have played a major role in Michigan, and at least three museums in the state have excellent collections.

The Alfred P. Sloan Museum in Flint is named for a former president of General Motors Corp. Its 30 famous vehicles of the past include a Flint Road Cart, 1886-1895; a 1900 Durant-Dort Buggy; a 1914 Marr; a 1917 Stanley Steamer, and C.S. Mott's Corvair.

The Gilmore Car Museum at Hickory Corners near Kalamazoo boasts a collection of more than 50 antique and classic cars, including a Hupmobile, Duesenberg, Stutz and Pierce Arrow.

World-renowned Henry Ford Museum at Dearborn has a series of "firsts"—America's first automobile offered for public sale, an 1896 Duryea motor wagon; Henry Ford's first vehicle, the 1896 quadricycle, and Ford's first mass-produced car, the 1903 Model A.

Michigan's lumbering era is highlighted at the Lumbering Museum in Hartwick Pines State Park at Grayling. The story of the "White Pine Era" is told through exhibits which include scenes of a restored lumber camp.

Two restorations in the Upper Peninsula—Fort Wilkins at Copper Harbor and Fayette Townsite near Garden—recall the days when copper and iron ore brought settlers from afar.

Fort Wilkins at the tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula is the last original wood fort east of the Mississippi River. It was built in 1844 to protect copper miners from Indian attack. Fayette on the Garden Peninsula is a century-old village of 19 historic structures where the famed Jackson Iron Company smelted Michigan iron ore from 1867 to 1891.

The history of Great Lakes shipping is told at Detroit's Dossin Museum on Belle Isle in the Detroit River and the Museum of Arts and History at Port Huron.

The Dossin Museum's observation deck and window-paneled wall provide glimpses of giant freighters passing on the Detroit River. Below, a pilot house is equipped with a ship's steering wheel and warning whistle reconstructed from vessels that traveled the lakes in the early 1900s.

The Port Huron museum has a special Marine Lore Gallery with ship models, prints and paintings, navigational equipment, model engines, bells and other nautical paraphernalia.

The Museum of the Great Lakes at Bay City and the Jesse Besser Museum at Alpena trace man's history in the Great Lakes region. Holland, Dutch capital of the United States, is the site of the Netherlands Museum, which contains an extensive collection of memorabilia from both the Old and New World Dutch heritage.

Michigan also has many other museums worth visiting. Since some hours vary according to the season, visitors should phone ahead to avoid disappointment.

'Raw Power'—Iggy's classic

IGGY AND THE STOOGES
"Raw Power"
(CBS)

Something a little different this week; not a new release, but the re-release of one of the greatest LPs of the 70's, 'Raw Power" by Ann Arbor's own Iggy Pop.

This album, along with the Stooges' first two releases, have been long unavailable in this country. Strangely enough, they've stayed in print overseas, so many a young rocker has been forced to pay around ten dollars for an import copy, or twice that if he purchased an original U.S. copy at a record convention. Now, with absolutely no fanfare about it, Columbia Records has re-released it. The only trouble is, no one seems to know about it!

As a test, I called three area record stores and inquired if they carried the domestic version of "Raw Power." "Oh no, it's been unavailable for years . . ." was the reply from two of the stores (both from large chains). Of the three, only Dearborn Music had it — and at the discount price of $3.98 yet!

Originally put out in 1973, "Raw Power" marked the beginning of Iggy Pop's association with David Bowie, who mixed and co-produced the album with Iggy. Many think that Pop peaked with this LP, and songs like "Search and Destroy," "Shake Appeal," and the title cut bear this out.

James Williamson's guitar work here is awe inspiring. So what if his playing wasn't technically "correct"? The fact remains that of all the albums released in the 70's, "Raw Power" was the one most likely to blow your speakers to kingdom come. "Gimme Danger" became a theme song of society, as well as of Ron Liebman in the movie "Up The Acadamy." I guess that means Iggy's acceptable now, eh?

"I'm a streetwalking cheater with a heart full of napalm
I'm a runaway son of the nuclear A-bomb
I'm the world's forgotten boy
The one who searches, and destroys"

On the mellower side, there's the love song (EVERY album has to have a love song you know) titled "Your Pretty Face Is Going To Hell." Ah, there's nothing like young love. . . .

Following the original release of this album, Iggy Pop (nee James Osterberg) spent some time in an institution, fighting drug addiction among other things (Like what, you ask? Well, like the tendency to drip melting wax on his body; breaking bottles on stage, then doing a belly smacker smack in the middle of the broken glass, getting up—blood practically pouring off of him—and finishing the set before being rushed to the hospital. You know, normal things.)

Some say that the recent Iggy Pop albums and live shows are his greatest and that he's never been better. His new LP, available on import only, is called "Party," and it's real good, and Iggy live is still like no other, but as for never being better. . . He's never been more stable, that I'll grant you, but "Raw Power" is truly the classic Pop album, as loud and energetic as they come.

If you think AC/DC and Judas Priest are good heavy metal bands, how about trying the original. I dare you.

"Raw Power got a healing hand
Raw Power can destroy a man
Raw Power is a mourning soul
Got a son called Rock & Roll"
"Heaviness is guaranteed
It was made for you and me"

Fishing Lines

By BOB SAWITSKI

Seek out the comfort zone

Now that the "dog days" of summer are here, fishing becomes work. That is, an angler has to work, and work hard, to catch fish.

Bright, sunny days, scorching temperatures and an overabundance of water skiiers and pleasure boaters on our lakes during the summertime all cut down on a fisherman's chance of catching anything.

But this doesn't mean you should pack away your rods and reels until the salmon start spawning in the fall. However, you do have to know where to look for fish, when they'll be the most active and, once you've located them, what lures to offer. If an angler can put all this together, he'll still catch fish.

On the hot days of summer, bass will search out water in a lake that's within their comfort zone. And more often than not, this water is in the "thermocline."

A thermocline is a zone of water marked by a rapid drop in temperature. It develops in the spring and lasts until late autumn, or until a lake "turns over."

Every autumn, when the water temperature drops, warmer water falls to the bottom of the lake and the colder water rises to the surface. You can tell this is taking place when algae and other forms of plant life can be seen floating on the surface. When a lake turns over, parts of the bottom are actually pulled loose.

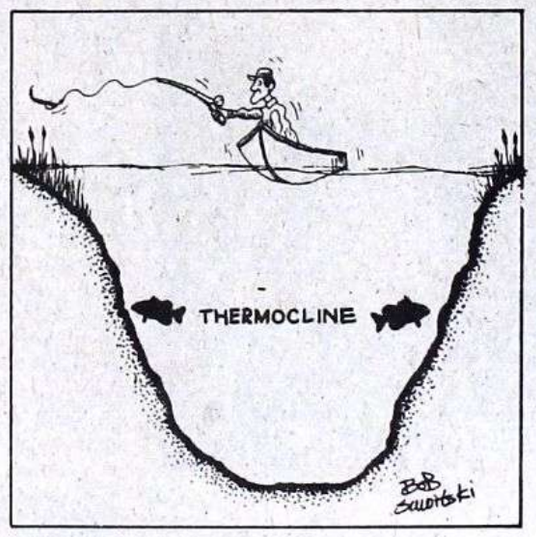
Oxygen dissipates quickly below the thermocline so fish will be found no more than a foot or two inside it in the summer except, of course, when conditions permit them to migrate into the shallows. But for the most part, bass will be suspended around this temperature break regardless of the depth of the water.

The best way to find a thermocline in a lake is with a temperature probe. Simply drop the sensor overboard and lower it slowly until the meter registers a drop in temperature. Note the depth and fish accordingly, especially where the thermocline meets the bottom (see illustration).

Deep-running crankbaits are excellent lures to fish a thermocline. Be sure you choose a crankbail that will run deep enough to penetrate the thermocline.

If you find the thermocline begins at the 18-foot depth, select a lure that will dive to 20 feet. Retrieve it fast enough to allow it to reach its maximum depth.

Sinking crankbaits, or "countdown" lures, are another good choice. Merely cast the lure and count it down, at the rate of about one foot per second, before beginning the retrieve. When it gets down to the approximate depth of the thermocline, start cranking.



Finding the thermocline, a zone of water marked by a rapid drop in temperature, can aid a fisherman during the "dog days" of summer.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID G. HOLLAND

David Holland, Cynthia Wilkinson marry at Calvary Baptist Church

Virginia Beach was the honeymoon destination for the newly-wed David G. Hollands who were united in marriage July 10 at Calvary Baptist Church. Since returning from their week-long trip, the young couple has taken up residence at 41275 Old Michigan Ave., Canton.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Wilkinson, Cynthia Lynn Wilkinson became Mrs. Holland in a six o'clock ceremony presided over by The Rev. Lonnie England.

Three planters of gladiolias, carnations and mums adorned the altar for the double ring rite at which Kathy Allen was organist and Teresa Jordan the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a gown of white silk organza designed with a Queen Anne neckline, bishop sleeves and a keyhole at the back of the Chantilly lace accented bodice. Other back interest was provided by the tiered lace train which drifted to chapel length as she walked.

A little cap of Chantilly lace secured her 3-tiered chapel-length veil while cascading yellow and white roses and baby's breath completed her bridal ensemble.

As maid of honor Marty Batyik of Southfield donned a mint green lace gown styled with a spaghetti strap bodice and short bolero jacket. Her bouquet was comprised of white carnations, yellow daisies and baby's breath, the reverse of those carried by the trio of bridesmaids: Pam Wilkinson of Belleville, sister-in-law of the bride; Linda Wilkinson of Belleville, a sister who was junior attendant; and Denise Vamplew of Westland, a cousin of the bridegroom.

The dresses they wore were of maize lace and identical to that worn by the honor maid.

Flower girls in the bridal coterie were 5-year-old Linda Lockhart and 4-year-old Tammy Lockhart. Their mint green qiana frocks were made with sheer overskirts and their baskets were filled with yellow carnations and white daisies.

The bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Holland of 7570 Clippert, Taylor, asked James Thomas of Southfield to serve as best man. Groomsmen were Charles Hokett of Walled Lake; Chuck Holland and Craig Holland, both of Taylor, and Donald Wilkinson of Belleville, all brothers of the bridal pair.

At the reception for 160 guests held in the fellowship hall, the bride's mother received in an apricot qiana gown with a matching silk rose corsage. A pale blue silk corsage accented the blue gown which the bridegroom's mother wore for the occasion.

The new Mrs. Holland, currently working as a quality control assistant for CPHA of Ann Arbor, is a 1977 graduate of Belleville High School. Her husband graduated in 1976 from Taylor Kennedy High School and from the University of Michigan with a degree in computer science. At present he is employed as a programmer analyst for World Computer Corporation of Birmingham.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the senior Hollands, was held at the Brass Belle in Belleville.

Florida honeymoon follows Ellison, Fischer wedding

The First United Methodist Church of Belleville was the setting May 8 for the evening wedding which joined Diane M. Fischer and Larry W. Ellison in holy matrimony.

The daughter of Nick L. and Teresa Fischer of 6131 Haggerty Rd., Belleville, the bride was presented in marriage by her parents.

The Rev. Joy E. Arthur presided at the double ring rite before some 250 friends and relatives including the bridegroom's parents, Wade and Gladys Ellison of 3735 Vivian, Monroe.

Music for the occasion was played by Gwen Ashe at the organ and Chris, Mark, Tom and Julie Villeneuve doing vocals with guitar accompaniment. A duet "The Wedding Song" was played and sung by the bride's sister, Denise Fischer, and Tom Villeneuve.

A toe-touching gown of white chiffon fashioned with an oval neckline, bishop sleeves and tiers of lace forming a chapel train was worn by the bride who carried a bouquet of cascading white silk roses and fresh baby's breath which she has made for her wedding day.

Her veil of silk illusion, secured by a pearl-studded Chantilly lace headdress, was cut in mid-calf length.

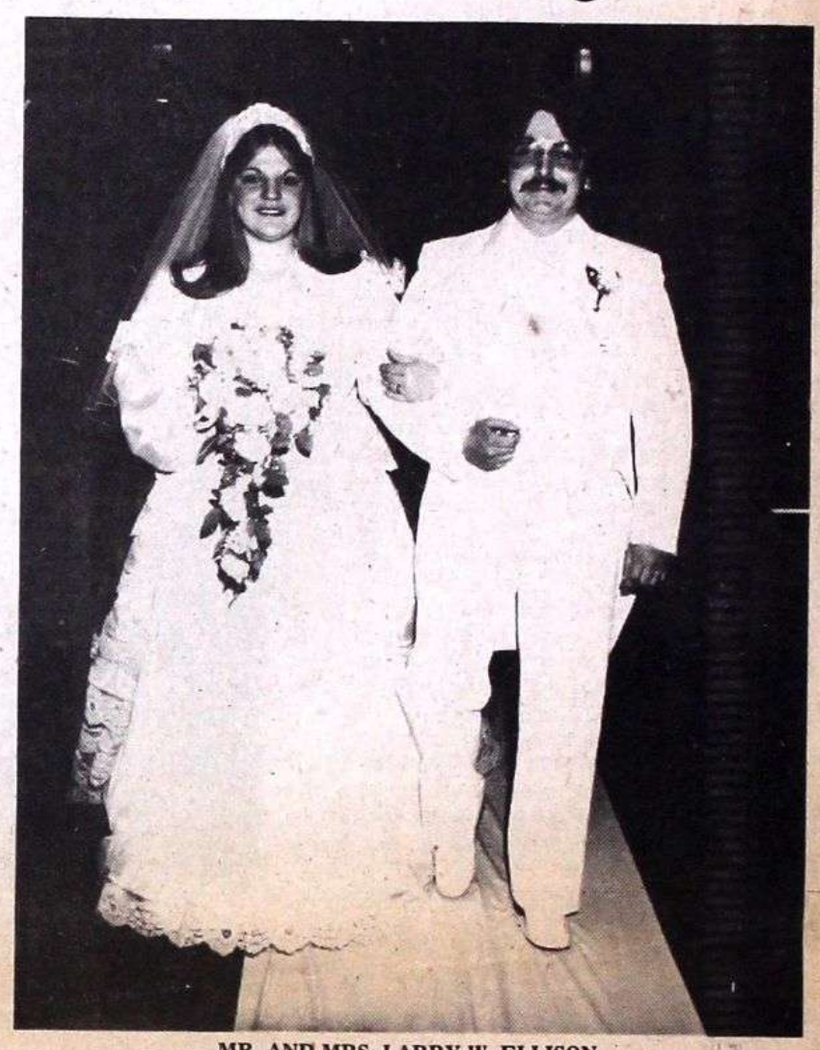
As her sister's maid of honor, Denise A. Fischer of Belleville donned a baby blue qiana gown with a halter bodice, pleated skirt and matching jacket designed with tulip sleeves. She wore a pale blue rosebud and baby's breath in her hair and carried a bouquet of silk blue roses, white carnations, daisies and baby's breath, also designed by the bride.

Bridal attendants in identical costumes included Marilyn Fischer of Charlotte and Caroline Lewek of Hartland, both sisters of the bride; Sandy Fischer of Ypsilanti, sister-in-law of the bride, and Joann Fischer of Detroit, a cousin.

Five-year-old Tracey Fischer of Ypsilanti and 4-year-old Lori Lewek of Hartland performed as flower girls at their aunt's wedding along with 7-year-old Angel Ellison, daughter of the bridegroom. They wore long baby blue dotted swiss and white lace frocks made by the mother of the bride and headbands of blue daisies. Their white baskets were filled with silk flowers.

Holding baskets filled with bird seed were two more of the bride's nieces, Monica and Melissa Lewek of Hartland.

Best man was Kevin Stegall of Northville. The corps of ushers included James Fischer of Ypsilanti, brother of the bride; David Campbell of Grosse Isle, cousin of the bridegroom; Marc Geer of Westland; Gary Busha of Bridgewater; Joseph Lewek of Hartland, brother-in-law of the bride, and Don Hibbitts of Belleville.



MR. AND MRS. LARRY W. ELLISON

A reception at UAW Local 735 in Canton was followed by a honeymoon in Florida after which the newlyweds made their home at 3060 Woodland Blvd., at Woodland Beach in Monroe.

The new Mrs. Ellison works as a secretary in the engineering department at Hydra-Matic where her husband is employed as an electrician in the plant maintenance department. Cherry Hill Methodist Church setting for Clayton-Hassett rite

Double ring vows were exchanged June 27 between Teresa Ann Hassett and Theodore Harwin Clayton at Cherry Hill United Methodist Church in Canton.

The afternoon rite joined in marriage the daughter of Betty Hassett of 45948 Bontekoe, Belleville, and the son of Harwin and Lucile Clayton of 10371 Endicott, Belleville.

The Rev. Bert Hosking officiated the early summer nuptials before some 80 guests.

For her wedding day, the bride selected a long polyester gown fashioned with a lace embellished sheer cape-collar which formed short sleeves over a V-necked fitted sleeveless bodice. She wore a soft-brimmed white lace hat to which a full-length veil was attached and carried white roses and pink carnations accented with baby's breath.

The bride's sister, Marlene Hassett of Belleville, served as maid of honor in an ivory frock imiprinted with a huckelberry-colored designed.

Kelly Houk of Ann Arbor was the only bridesmaid in a gown identical to the honor maid's.

The bridegroom chose his cousin, Larry Clayton of Belleville, to be best man and his bride's cousin, Don Hassett of Westland, to be groomsman.

At the reception which followed in Van Buren Township Hall, the 125 guests were greeted by the bridegroom's mother in a peach dress to which she attached a corsage of white roses and yellow carnations.

After a week-long honeymoon to Boyne City and points North, the newlyweds made their home at F-4 Pine Grove Terrace, Ypsilanti.

Both young people are graudates of Belleville High School, the new Mrs. Clayton currently working at Eastern Michigan University's admissions office and her husband at Sunway Solar Heating Systems in Farmington.

The Harwin Claytons played host at the rehearsal dinner at their home on Endicott Street.

potpourri

By Lee Smith -- Suburban Living Editor

Children seem to be getting dearer and dearer and by that the American Council of Life Insurance means more and more expensive NOT more lovable.

Every time we look around, the cost of bringing them up seems to climb. The direct out-of-pocket expense for a middle class family — making about $22,500 to $27,500 annually, after taxes — would be about $85,000!

This would include direct maintenance costs of childrearing such as child birth, food, housing, clothing, medical care and education.

Thomas J. Espenshade in his report for the Population Reference Bureau, found the total cost of seeing a child through his first 18 years, plus four years at a public university, would be between $100,000 for a low-income family and $140,000 for a middle-class family in the United States, based on the 1980 economy. (Now d'ya know where the money went?)

"That includes estimates of what a mother might have made in the labor force if she weren't home with a child," he explains.

An economist at the Urban Institute in Washington, D. C., Espenshade first calculated such costs in 1977. The original figure has now grown by 33 percent. As in 1977, housing is the leader in child-rearing expenses, followed by food and transportation. "Actually, the increase in raising a child since 1977," he says, "has climbed at about the same rate as the Consumer Price Index."

Yes — our children certainly are DEAR!

THAT "LITTLE" DRIP? Yes, a dripping hot water faucet which fills a coffee cup in six minutes wastes 5,475 gallons of water and costs $50.00 a year to heat.

TROUBLE WITH YOUR DISHWASHER? The soap isn't dispensing properly? That was the case in the Smith household recently when we'd go to unload the supposedly "clean" batch of dishes only to find them still grimy. That was because the washing detergent hadn't dissolved and was a gooey mass in its little compartment.

Phoning the repairman, believe it or not, solved my problem and cost me NOTHING! I lucked out — got a fella who doled out some free advice (losing himself an easy "mark" who'd have believed anything he'd have told me on a service call.) How old is your dishwasher soap, he asked right off, and where do you store it?

That was the solution -- it'd lost its zing from sitting under a too humid sink area. A new box and a new storage location did the trick!

IT'S CANTALOUPE SEASON (or do you call them muskmelons?) and here are some tips from marketing experts for choosing good, ripe melons.

- Study them! The skin color should be yellow-green to creamy yellow -- not GREEN.
- Shake them! If they're really ripe, you can hear the seeds rattling inside.
- Smell them! They should give off a fragrance.
- Feel them! The "belly button" should be somewhat soft. If the melon is soft all over, however, it is probably overly ripe.

Now for a little vanilla ice cream and crushed pineapple . . . .

"BY AND LARGE" is one of those expressions we've heard countless times and, perhaps, have used ourselves in conversation. But -- how many know the origin of the 3-word phrase?

In its original meaning, "by and large" may be a trifle out of date but, as used today to mean "generally speaking" or "on the whole", it still is a useful phrase. A politician might well say, "By and large, I approve of the president's tax-cut." In this case, he is indicating general approval but still allowing himself plenty of room to maneuver about specific details of the program.

The phrase's real meaning, however, had a very precise meaning in sailors' language. In the great days of sailing ships, the man at the helm would be given one of two orders, "full and by" or "by and large." The first command used with a skillfull helmsman, meant "Sail as close to the wind as you can." The second, "by and large", meant "Sail slightly off the wind."

This command was given to the inexperienced helmsman, since this would leave him in less danger of being "taken aback" in the same way the politician has allowed himself a little leeway to avoid being pinned down on specific issues.

Residents protest expansion plans

Landfill talks labeled illegal

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

More than 150 area residents packed Canton Township Hall Monday night to protest the expansion of Woodland Meadows Sanitation Landfill on Hannan Road which is the boundary line of the two communities.

A long parade of irate citizens went to the microphone to express their concerns and objections to a panel of officials from Wayne County Health Department and Department of Natural Resources (DNR), who hosted the public hearing.

John McKinney, city attorney for Wayne, challenged the legality of the public hearing, saying state and county officials had not given proper notification of the meeting.

McKinney, one of the first to speak, said, "Mr. Chairman, I do not have a prepared statement and one of the reasons I wanted to speak to you tonight is to, in effect, challenge the legality of this hearing.

"The reason, at least in my opinion, is that the proper publication of the hearing was not given.

"I advised my client (the City of Wayne) that it wasn't necessary for them to go to the expense of hiring a consultant because I didn't think these proceedings were going to go as scheduled this evening, so that is part of the reason we do not have a prepared statement."

McKinney asked the chairman of the meeting to extend him more than the usual 30 days to evaluate the situation and make a determination whether it was necessary for the City of Wayne to hire a professional consultant.

"I have some misgivings, Mr. Chairman, about these proceedings tonight. The manner of the format when members of the Department of Natural Resources talked to us initially by way of soothing the fears of those of us who have those fears about what happens to the landfill. That we don't have contaminants flowing into and polluting the surrounding area."

McKinney stressed the vital importance of the close proximity to the landfill of Wayne residents who live on Hannan Road directly across from the site.

"What we'd like to do is have some time for careful analysis of the facts to separate fact from opinion," the Wayne city attorney pointed out about the highly emotional issue.

In asking for additional time to respond, McKinney expressed misgivings about the past history of state and county agencies.

"I would point out to the Chairman, however, that the record of the Department of Natural Resources is not the greatest in this particular area," McKinney said. The audience burst into applause after his statement.

"You promised quarterly tests of the landfill but we all know, those of us involved in government, know what budgetary squeezes can do. "The thing I want to emphasize, and I hope it isn't true, is that the appearance of this meeting is one in which we are confronted with prepared statements by members of your department. Mr. Chairman, and prepared statements by the applicant.

"Because of a lack of proper notification by the department no one else is really able to present the facts to you," McKinney pointed out.

He said that 30 days seemed like a long time to prepare statements but he said that the serious nature of the issue demanded more time for study and asked the indulgence of the moderator to give more time for response.

John Zech, community development director for the city of Wayne, spoke

700 county workers get 30-day reprieve

Nearly 700 Wayne County employees scheduled for layoff have been given a 30-day reprieve by Circuit Court Judge Thomas Roumell, who ordered talks to continue between the County and Council 25 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees which represents about 3000 of about 4400 County workers.

Roumell ruled late July 26 in a "last-minute" decision to stop the layoffs which were planned for July 27 unless agreement was reached on some alternative for saving !5.2 million this year, with emphasis on deferment of final-quarter cost-of-living allowance until February.

His earlier decision, issued in a temporary restraining order, forbid the immediate layoffs, but permitted the County to defer COLA, with both sides claiming victory.

Roumell continued that restraining order in a full hearing on July 30, but ordered negotiations to continue with weekly reports made to him, and for the discussions to include possible "roll-in" of part of the COLA into base pay.

County Labor Relations Director, James Bishop, said the County and AFSCME were 25 cents apart on agreeing to a COLA roll-in. Most County workers receive $2.07 per hour in COLA, given in quarterly payments throughout the year.

AFSCME wants more of the COLA rolled-in as an incentive for agreeing to the proposed deferment which would entitle them to five, rather than four, COLA payments in the next fiscal year. County officials want to defer the COLA to help ease a projected $20 million deficit this year, then hopefully eliminate the entire deficit by the end of the next fiscal year.

"Hopefully, the matter will be settled in 30 days," Roumell said of the impasse. He also said that he hoped Board Chairman Samuel A. Turner and members of the County Labor Relations Board would attend the meetings when he is given weekly progress reports.

In another court matter with impact on the budget, the State Court of Appeals last week declined to rule on the County's request for an injunction to hald unauthorized expenditures by Sheriff William Lucas. Despite several court cases since February relating to the issue, Lucas continues to spend money maintinaing his Patrol and Investigation unit which the Board of Commissioners has

Faust attacks drilling plans for Great Lakes

$350 million recreation fishing sports jeopardy

WILLIAM FAUST

Senate Majority Leader William Faust (D-Westland) today called U.S. Secretary of Energy James Edwards' support for future oil and gas drilling in the Great Lakes "incredibly thoughtless, shortsighted and ill-advised."

"I do not believe that any short-term energy benefits gained from drilling in the Great Lakes would outweigh the potential dangers of polluted water, dead and contaminated fish, shorelines ravaged by oil spills and other environmental and economic damage," said Faust, who is also sponsoring Senate Bills 327 and 328 which ban off shore oil and gas drilling in the Great Lakes.

"Additionally, Great Lakes oil and gas drilling would cause major disruptions to the sports fishing industry which, in Michigan alone, generates over $350 million annually in revenue and provides recreation to many of Michigan's 1.5 million licensed anglers."

Edwards stated his support for Great Lakes oil and gas drilling after speaking to the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL) in Atlanta, saying "It would be great if we can find some oil and gas there. I believe in opening up our domestic resources."

"We all know that this country is suffering an energy shortage, but it must also be remembered that we are on the brink of severe water shortage and that the competition for our fixed water supplies will become increasingly intense," said Faust. "Jeopardizing the largest group of freshwater lakes in the world to gain some short-term oil and gas supplies is simply not sound policy and ignores the needs of future generations."

"We can get by without Great Lakes oil, but we cannot survive without drinking water. If Secretary Edwards has his way and Great Lakes drilling occurs, we might be faced with drinking a combination of both."

Faust's bills not only outlaw oil and gas drilling in the Great Lakes, but also prohibit the taking of any oil or gas from the bays and harbors connected with the Great Lakes.

A person or corporation removing oil or gas in violation of the legislation would be fined an amount equal to three times the value of the oil or gas taken, plus the costs of repairing any environmental damage.

Romulus Witnesses to host Dr. Sekela

The Romulus Congregation of Jehovah's Witnessess will be host this week to Mr. and Mrs. Vasil Sekela, circuit minister from the Watchtower Society of New York.

According to Paul Akers, local witness elder, Sekela will take the lead in all the activities of the local congregation, giving training in the house-to-house and home Bible study ministeries.

Sekela is encouraging the local witnesses to use the topical approach to Bible study when aiding others in this area to understand the Bible more clearly. Using this method, 22 basic Bible topics are considered over the course of about six months in the privacy of the student's home. Well over a million families and individuals participated in this free home Bible study program last year. The program is available locally, without cost or obligation, by calling 326-6565 or 326-5676.

Sekela also will conduct several meetings at the Kingdom Hall throughout the week, starting at 7 p.m. As the highlight of the week's activity, Sunday at 1:00, Sekela gives the Bible discourse entitled "Encourage One Another as the Day Draws Near." All of these Bible study meetings are free of charge and the public is invited.

700 county workers get 30-day reprieve

struck from the budget and ordered disbanded.

The injunction was first sought from visiting Judge Harvey Moes from Hillsdale County, but Moes also declined to rule. When he balked, the County took the case to Appeals Court, which returned it to Moes with instructions to decide on the injunction in 20 days.

In the meantime, the County may appeal to the Supreme Court.

Also awaiting is Judge Moes' decision in the Sheriff's suit against the County seeking restoration of the road patrol and even more staff beyond that, Moes has concluded verbal hearings in the case and given the attorneys until August 5 to submit final written arguments.

Until the various court matters are concluded, the Board of Commissioners is withholding further action on whether to try removing Lucas from office for his budget violations and failure to post a personal performance bond as ordered. Lucas is under subpoena to appear before the Board with explanations for his actions.

If the Board chooses, Lucas can be removed from office by two-thirds vote.

Landfill talks labeled illegal

next. He stressed the possible dangers and inconveniences to the residents of Louis Garfield Subdivision, a 140-home neighborhood in Wayne directly across from the landfill site.

"This landfill borders on four communities and is directly across the street from a 140-home subdivision in Wayne. As secretary to a planning commission myself in the City of Wayne, I'm wondering if the 105-acre expansion site might not be put to a higher and better use," Zech said.

He pointed out that the area is in close proximity to Conrail, Van Born Road and Hannan Road and asked Canton Planning Commission members, who also attended the hearing, to consuder a "higher and better use" for the land.

Zech expressed concern about the Wilbur, Bell and Bingle Drains that flow through the existing landfill and then through Wayne's Louis Garfield Subdivision, under Michigan Avenue and into the Rouge River.

"Bingle Drain is an open drain. It was channeled, but is not able to handle the anticipated drainage off the landfill. We are concerned mainly about three things — ground water, storm water and hazardous waste."

"Papers and other refuse blow off the trucks and into the drains and yards of adjacent homes. Woodland Meadows has been cooperative for the most part but we hear many complaints at city hall," he said.

"We are very, very concerned about hazardous and toxic waste accepted by the landfill. We learned for the first time in mid-June from Canton officials that hazardous and toxic waste has already been deposited at the site."

Mike Andrews, an official from Wayne County Health Department, said Woodland Meadows received approval of an "interim status application" to receive hazardous waste material. A Woodland Meadows officials said that "less than five percent" of the total amount dumped at the Canton site was hazardous waste material. Dave Nicholson, assistant Canton Planner, read a prepared statement expressing vital concerns of the township. Romulus also sent a member of its planning consultant firm to represent that city's planning commission.

The landfill has 18 employes and pays $62,000 annually in taxes.

Officials in charge of Monday's public hearing said all verbal and written testimony would be evaluated before they determine whether to approve the application to let Woodland Meadows Landfill expand.

CITY OF ROMULUS

MINUTES OF THE SPECIAL MEETING OF THE ROMULUS CITY COUNCIL TO DISCUSS THE 1981-1982 GENERAL FUND AND FEDERAL REVENUE SHARING BUDGET, HELD JUNE 30, 1981

The meeting was called to order at 8:00 p.m. by Chairman Banks.
Attendance at Roll Call:
Present: Raspberry, Block, Canejo, Banks, Yeramian, Rush
Excused: Cantrell
Absent: None
Administrative Officials in Attendance:
William M. Oakley, Mayor
Leonard J. Folmar, City Clerk
Beverly McAnally, Treasurer
1. Motion by Block, supported by Yeramian, to approve the Agenda as presented.

AGENDA

Roll Call
1. Agenda
2. 1981-1982 Proposed Budget and Federal Revenue Sharing Budget
3. Discussion
4. Adjournment

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Block, Banks, Yeramian, Rush, Raspberry. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

NOTE: Pursuant to Public Act 267 of 1976, said meeting was posted as required.

Councilman Rush - A communication was recently received from the Mayor, wherein he listed amended salary increase recommendations for appointed personnel. I notice there is a disparity between the D.P.W. Personnel and the D.P.W. Director. The D.P.W. Personnel is low considering the Director has been given an additional salary increase. Further, I feel we should speak to the concerns of Mr. Folmar has regarding increases for appointed personnel in his office.

Councilman Raspberry - Salary increases are moot, in that the salaries have already been set at the meeting of June 23, 1981.

Mr. Folmar - I am asking Council to consider the two areas we discussed in the Public Hearing earlier this evening: that is an increase for the Deputy Clerk and the Clerk's Administrative Secretary.

Mr. Rush - Mr. Folmar, how much money are you asking for?

Mr. Folmar - I am only asking for Seven hundred, sixty-one dollars ($761.00) for my Administrative Secretary and Fifteen hundred eight-five dollars ($1,585.00) for the Deputy Clerk.

Mr. Rush - We can amend the motion setting the salaries to include those increases.

Mr. Raspberry - You cannot amend a previous motion because it is not on the agenda. At a previous meeting I wanted to amend a motion changing the date of the Adult Entertainment public hearing and was unable to; to amend the motion setting the salaries would amount to the same thing. I agree your Deputy and Secretary are underpaid and have been since 1979, however, the salaries have been set and is not a part of the budget meeting.

Mr. Rush - If it is not a part of this meeting, I don't know what is.

Mr. Raspberry - Those two salaries can be adjusted later with something such as a cost of living increase. But if we increase the Clerk's Secretary at this time we must also increase the Mayor's Secretary an equal amount and then someone else will need an additional increase, creating a domino effect.

CANEJO ENTERS

Mr. Folmar - I provided this information on the two salaries in my office because I believe City Council is fair and equitable, and do not want to treat anyone differently. The rest of the appointed employees are going forward with salaries while the two positions in my office are going backward. This is just to call your attention to that fact.

Linda Goodson - 6018 Columbus, I would like to address the concern of the salary differences in the positions. I do not understand why, if you are aware of the problem of insufficient increase as compared to others, why you can not bring that increase into line at this time. Why must you wait until later?

Mr. Raspberry - Perhaps there are others who are getting overlooked, such as the personnel assistant. My vote is on the basis of classification and not on personalities.

Ms. Goodson - I am not speaking to personalities, but to positions, and the number of overtime hours as required by law above and beyond the normal forty (40) hours per week. Why were the recommended increases not equitable with the number of hours worked?

Mr. Raspberry - This is a budget session and those figures were worked out at a previous meeting by a councilman.

Councilman Block - It depends on departments.

Councilman Rush - Mr. Folmar has quoted the City Charter, Section 5.2 (b) wherein the Charter states the secretary shall be paid the average of that position in Wayne County, therefore we will be in violation of the law if we do not pay the secretary and Deputy Clerk the average.

Councilman Canejo - How much of Community Development Director's salary does the City pay?

Patsy Cantrell - Block Grant and CETA pay his entire salary except for the recent salary increase.

Mr. Canejo - Percentage wise, how much does that amount to?

Mrs. Cantrell - I can not answer that, in that I do not have that figure in front of me.

Mr. Rush - What was the original recommendation for the Community Development Director?

Mrs. Cantrell - We have had many recommendations and amendments and I do not recall immediately the original recommendation.

Ms. Goodson - you still have not answered my question. Why the two positions in the Clerk's office did not receive an equitable increase as other appointed employees?

AGENDA

Roll Call
1. Agenda
2. Trouton Drain
3. Discussion
4. Adjournment

Roll call vote showing: Ayes — Cantrell, Raspberry, Yeramian, Banks. Nays — None. Motion carried.

PURPOSE:

Due to the numerous concerns expressed by citizens of the City of Romulus regarding the progress of the de-contamination of the Trouton Drain, the City Council requested that the representatives of the Department of Natural Resources and the Attorney General appear at a public hearing to discuss same.

DISCUSSION

Mr. Schwartz explained that the following progress had been made with regards to Chemical Recovery Systems, Inc. (Defendant) and their compliance with consent judgement issued...

1. Excavation and Removal of Ponds (i.e. East and Vinyl Ponds)
   East Pond — completed August 30, 1980 with backfiled 60 days thereafter
   Vinyl Pond (to have completed June 1, 1981) has yet to meet its deadline. Mr. Schwartz explained that this was partially due to the enactment of new legislation which requires that hazardous waste materials, based on a percentage of chemical concentration, be disposed of at special sites. Most of these sites are not located in this state, therefore, the costs of transporting these materials to another state would be astronomical. Presently, they are testing the pond for its chemical concentration; specifically, its verbien content. (If its verbien content is found to be 50% or greater, it will have to be transported to a distant state for disposal.)
2. Restoration of Proper Grade of Property
   This is to be accomplished after the scheduled removal of the Vinyl Pond. Presently, there is large amounts of soil on the property awaiting restoration.
3. Trouton Drain Restoration
   Chemical Recovery had agreed to pay the Department of Natural Resources ten thousand ($10,000) dollars for the cleaning of the drain from Van Born Road to Joan Road. The work has been completed and the Department of Natural Resources has received payment. Mr. Schwartz also, mentioned that the new gravel has been laid, and that the portion of the drain site above has been inspected and its waters found to be clear. Although, decaying leaves were observed in the waters, new forms of life that previously did not exist were also observed. The main problem of the drain below Joan Road is that it is not physically well constructed. Also, there exists an overgrown jungle area which causes the water to back up. It was their consensus (i.e., the DNR) that the drain below Joan Road should be cleaned; this would improve the flow of water.
4. Intercept Evaluation and Correction
   Chemical Recovery did retain professional consultants to evaluate the ground-water intercept tile system located on their property. As a result, an intercept system was installed and is working properly.
5. Slurry Trench
   The defendant did install a slurry trench. It has been observed by the DNR and appears to be functioning well.
6. Drum Storage
   The defendant has reduced the number of drum storage well below the 6,000 number stipulated in the consent judgement.
7. Secondary Containment
   The defendant has completed the majority of the requirements of secondary containment for all storage areas.
8. Maintenance Agreement and Restrictive Covenant
   The defendant is maintaining the ground water intercept and slurry trench.

Mr. Schwartz felt that the condition of the Trouton Drain was improving. However, he stressed the importance of correcting the problem of water back-up below Joan Road; and explained that odors experienced by residents of the area were mainly a result of septic smells not chemical odor.

Mr. Zugger informed concerned citizens that any extremely bothersome odors should be reported to the Department of Natural Resources; they in turn would report back to them its nature. Also, some of the odors experienced might be a result of the attempt to clean the Vinyl Pond.

Mr. Schwartz informed council that the Department would continue to report all progress.

81-208

Motion by Raspberry, supported by Cantrell, that a communication be forwarded to Frank J. Kelley, Attorney General and Dr. Howard Tanner, Department of Natural Resources, expressing the city's gratitude and thanks for their assistance and tenacity in resolving the problems of pollution of the Trouton Drain. Roll call vote showing: Ayes — Raspberry, Cantrell, Yeramian, Canejo, Rush, Banks. Nays — None. Motion carried.

Motion by Yeramian, supported by Cantrell, to adjourn the meeting. Roll call vote showing: Ayes — Raspberry, Cantrell, Yeramian, Canejo, Rush, Banks. Nays — None. Motion carried.

Vet Center program to be expanded

The popular vet center counseling service for Vietnam Era veterans will be expanded, Veterans Administration Chief Robert P. Nimmo, announced today.

Nimmo, who took office last month as administrator of Veterans Affairs, said that 42 new counseling facilities will be added to the program under the terms of the Reagan Bipartisan Budget Resolution.

The 42 new facilities will result in a total of 133 "storefront" counseling facilities available to Vietnam era veterans who may be suffering readjustment problems following military service during the Vietnam war.

As he had during his confirmation hearings before the senate veterans affairs committee July 9, 1981, Mr. Nimmo stressed the fact that, "While the vast majority of our Vietnam veterans have successfully returned to our working society, a substantial number still suffer various degrees of readjustment difficulty."

It is those veterans, he said, "whom we will continue to reach out to through this expanded vet center program."

Mr. Nimmo said the centers typically have staffs of three to five persons who operate on an informal, person-to-person basis with Vietnam era veterans experiencing emotional and other readjustment problems.

"We hope to have all of the new centers in operation within three to four montsh," Mr. Nimmo said. Some are almost ready to begin operations and others will be opened as suitable space can be arranged and personnel recruited.

Since the vet center program began operation early in 1980, approximately 72,000 Vietnam era veterans have been counseled. Mr. Nimmo said that VA officials believe the new centers will be much more efficient than the original ones because contacting and counseling efficiency have been improved.

The expectation, he said, is that the new center teams will be able to provide assistance to approximately 12,000 Vietnam era veterans in their first year of operation.

The vet center program has a budget of $29,580,000 for fiscal year 1982, which begins October 1, 1981.

A new facility will be opened in Grand Rapids, Michigan. This brings a total of three vet centers in Michigan. The other two are in Detroit and have been in operation since May 1980.

Home loan guarantees

(Editor's note: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA counselors. Full information is available at any VA office.)

Q — What is the maximum amount I can borrow on a Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan?

A — There is no legal maximum. The VA will guarantee 60 percent of the loan or $27,500, whichever is less. The total amount of the loan is determined by the policy of your lending institution and by your ability to repay the loan.

Q — My husband died in 1975. At the time of his death I did not want the headstone or marker provided by the Veterans Administration, but I heard recently that the VA pays an amount toward the purchase of a headstone. Am I entitled to this benefit?

A — No. The law providing for this benefit was not passed until late 1978. The deceased must have been buried after the law took effect in order for the survivor to be eligible for reimbursement.

Q — Can a veteran get an extension of his 10-year delimiting date for education benefits from the Veterans Administration?

A — If a veteran was physically or mentally disabled during the period of his eligibility, he may apply for an extension by submitting medical evidence for consideration.

Q — When are dividends paid on participating National Service Life Insurance policies?

A — Dividends are normally paid on the anniversary date of the insurance policy.

Spice up your summer with juicy barbeque

By LINDA ST. THOMAS

Summer just wouldn't be summer — at least not in Romulus and America — without barbeque.

"Sitting around eating ribs or chicken coated with a tangy sauce and cooked over an open fire is my idea of a perfect night," barbeque expert W.J. Strickland says. His 20 years' experience behind the grill recently earned him a spot at the Smithsonian's 15th annual Festival of American Folklife where he cooked ribs from 5 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily for two weeks.

Say you're cooking up some barbeque in your backyard. What's the first thing to do? Work on that critical element, the fire. If it's just charcoal, use only 10 or 12 coals and wait until they begin to turn ash white before putting the meat on, Price says. For a lighter flavor and a great aroma, you may use hickory and oak chips with a smaller amount of charcoal.

Either way, the experts agree, it takes at least 40 minutes for the charcoal, or the coal and wood combination, to be "just right" for the meat. Too many people rush this process and put meat over cold charcoals or over flames, charring the outside and leaving uncooked pork or chicken inside.

"The quality of meat is important in a barbeque," Strickland says. "You can't just cook any old fatty meat and expect it to taste great with sauce." He and Price prefer three-down ribs, that is, slabs of spare ribs that weight 3 pounds or less. (The larger slabs, for example, 5 and 6 pounds, have tougher meat with more fat). The ribs are cooked for an hour to an hour-and-a-half and the large pieces of chicken (broilers or fryers) should stay on the grill about an hour.

Knowing precisely when the meat is done is a tricky business; sometimes it's just a question of experience. But in the meantime, novice cookers may test by inserting a sharp knife into the meat to be sure it's not pink.

If you have good meat, there's no need to marinate it overnight. The only thing you might want to do before cooking, Price recommends, is to trim some of the fat from the back of the ribs.

Now, about that barbeque sauce. First of all, in many Southern families the recipe is a secret, passed down from grandfather to father to son, with some modifications along the way. It can be tomato-based, vinegar-based, mustard-based, chili-flavored and even flavored with fruit or honey. There's no one authentic Southern-style barbeque sauce, so it's fine to disagree over the best recipe.

Most old-time barbequers in the South do agree as to when to brush the "secret" sauce onto the meat — approximately five to 10 minutes before it's done. Of course, you must turn the meat several times after the sauce has been brushed on both sides. If you cook meat for the full hour or so with barbeque sauce on it, the sauce turns black and has that burned flavor instead of a nice tangy taste, Price adds. He has tried all kinds of sauces but now sticks to his grandfather's recipe.

For many women, perhaps the best part of these cookouts is the fact that husbands who steadfastly refuse to prepare meals in the kitchen become barbeque gourmets during the summertime, branching out from the traditional hamburgers-and-hot-dogs to barbeque sauces on chicken and ribs.

"It's relaxing for me to come home from work and start to cook outdoors," says Strickland, who began by watching his father do barbeques. "It's only too bad more people don't teach their children to barbeque. It's a fun way to teach them how to cook."

Now, what do you serve with the ribs and chicken? For a complete Southern meal, try potato salad, baked beans, corn on the cob, hot bread or rolls and a simple fruit pie, say peach or strawberry.

BARBEQUE

One recipe for barbeque sauce used at the 1981 Smithsonian Festival of American Folklife was not a secret:

BARBEQUE SAUCE (2 QUARTS)

3 chickens halved or several three-down ribs
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons soy or Teriyaki sauce
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 tablespoons minced garlic
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon basil leaves
1 teaspoon black pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
2 cups catsup
½ cup beer
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup olive oil
¾ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon chili powder
¼ teaspoon cayenne

Mix all sauce ingredients in a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer about 10 minutes. When the meat is just about done, brush sauce on and turn. Repeat several times for five or 10 minutes. Remaining sauce may be heated and served on the side.

"The best of the best in local men softballplayers."

That's what fans can expect to see this Friday through Sunday (Aug. 7, 8, 9) in the 5th annual Leonard J. Anderson Memorial Invitational Tournament in Wayne.

Some 16 men's softball teams—three of which are entered in World Tournament competition Labor Day weekend—will battle for slow-pitch supremacy at the two Anderson fields at Howe and Annapolis roads in Wayne.

Action is scheduled to run continuously from 6:15 to 11:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 7; from 8 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8; and from 8 a.m. to 7:45 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 9—with the championship game slated to start at 7:45 p.m. If the undefeated team loses the 7:45 p.m. game Sunday, there will be a final game at 9 p.m.

"We have another outstanding field of teams and we're looking for another very exciting tournament," said tourney Director Larry Quartuccio.

"Some of the best softball players in Wayne County will be in action and three of the teams have qualified for United States Slow-Pitch Softball Association World Tournament play on Labor Day weekend."

The trio includes Shore Locker Room of St. Clair Shores, Metro Merchants of Westland and Trailblazers of Detroit.

Quartuccio said last year's Leonard Anderson Invitational Champ, Little Bill's Trophies of Redford, will be entered this weekend and will be one of the favorites. All Star Sports of Canton and Johnson's Carbonic, Wayne Men's Class A champion, are also given a chance to win it all.

Other entries include, from Wayne, Pittman's Installation, last year's tourney runnerup, Greg's Emergency Room, Unistrut and Star Optical. Westland will also offer Richies' Raiders, Jamies Lounge and Drake's Lounge.

Other teams include: A and J Softball Club of Canton, Frito Lay/Rogalles of Ypsilanti and Carriage House of Redford, which was Anderson Tourney runnerup in 1979.

Proceeds of the Tournament, which is named after the first Wayne police officer to lose his life in the line of duty will go to build another softball field at Anderson Field.

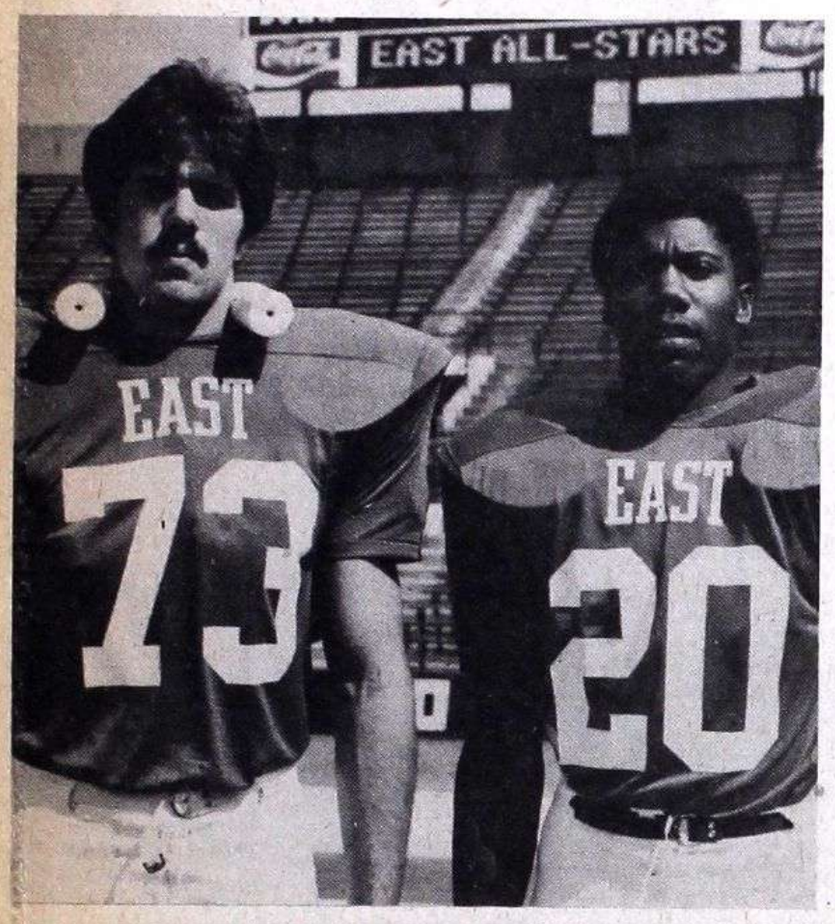
There will be a Home Run Derby at 4:45 p.m. Saturday and sluggers will be aiming at a 300-foot left field fence. Little Bill's Trophies donates a trophy for the Home Run Derby winner and to the Most Valuable Player of the series.

Jack's Sports Shop donates warm-up jackets to those two winners, and to the player with the highest batting average in the tourney and a trophy to the player who hits the most home runs in the 3-day series.

"The Anderson Tournament gives out the finest trophies of any tournament I've ever seen," said Quartuccio, whose Johnson's Carbonic team sponsors the annual tournament. The team's players work at the tourney each year and nearly $3,500 has been donated to the Wayne Recreation Department in the past four years and set aside to be used to build another first class softball diamond in Wayne.

"There are six of last year's Tournament All-Star team back to play this year, which should make for a good tournament," Quartuccio added. "We urge the fans to come and see the best players of the area in action and also contribute to a good cause at the same time."

The Home Run Derby is open to any player in the tournament and any spectator in the stands and is always a highlight of the continuous-play tourney. The Home Run Derby is slated to start at 4:45 p.m. Saturday. Games last one hour and 15 minutes or less and are scheduled continuously throughout the 3-day weekend.



When East meets West

Two former prep grid rivals, Westland John Glenn's Dale Boone (at left) and Wayne Memorial's Rick Rogers will competing on the same team — the East — when the top high school gridders clash on Saturday, Aug. 8 at Michigan State University's Spartan Stadium in the inaugural Michigan High School Football All-Star Game. Tickets may be purchased at the gate for $3 and another familiar name, Plymouth Salem's Tom Moshimer, head coach at Salem, is the chairman of the All-Star Game.

They're eyeing world crown

Westland Marco's girls' softball team will be heading for Tennessee this week to compete in the United States Softball Association's world championships after winning one of two berths awarded to teams that played in qualifying rounds in Walled Lake. Marco's beat Plymouth 15-4, East Detroit 5-2 before dropping a 5-3 decision to Garden City in the championship game. Westland and Garden City advanced to the world Tournament which is scheduled to be played Aug. 7-8. Members of the Westland team include Kris Arenstedt (kneeling, from left), Kathy Kicsenowski, Lisa Jones, Shawn Kings, Tracy Brown and Kathy Wintersteen; second row are Cheri Robitaille, Jill Phillips, Kris Lovich, Carolyn Greybill, Diane Cranston, Tina Green, Diane Lang, and Coach Dave Thompson; top row are coaches Larry Sullivan and manager Bill Robitaille. Not available at the time of the photo are team members Connie Sipe and Holly Heilman.

State champ faces big hurdles

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

If there are some wealthy philanthropists reading this column, there's a young, attractive high school state champ by the name of Kelly Graham who could use his services.

Kelly, who will be a senior at Westland John Glenn this fall, was the No. 1 hurdler in the state this year in the 110-yard event after breezing to a 13.7 in the finals. She also placed second in the state for the 220-yard hurdles, so she is a power to contend with when it comes to track.

And softball and volleyball and just about any sport she chooses.

In fact, Miss Graham has displayed outstanding talent in AAU competition, winning two gold medals recently in Indiana in her specialty.

"I feel that if I keep on practicing I can go pretty far," said the 115-pound, 5-7, hazel-eyed athlete. "People have told me to keep training even for the Olympics.

Graham was to see just how good she is nationally at a meet scheduled for North Carolina on August 6 through Aug. 9. However, as everybody knows travel and accommodations can be very costly and, "I'm looking for a sponsor to help pay for some of the expenses," she says.

Coached by Rance Teeple, a former All-Area long jumper from Cherry Hill who also starred at Eastern Michigan University in track before taking up his true calling — coaching young boys and girls in track. Kelly continued to progress in junior high and high school where she was guided by coaches William Foder and Cheryl Caughey.

If there are any organizations out there that are willing to chip in, contact the Associated Newspapers' Sports Desk at 729-4000.

Another group of young athletes who appear to have problems is the Belleville High cross country team. Because of a couple of millage defeats and lack of money in the school budget, the cross county season at that high school, which has produced many outstanding harriers, may not leave the starting gate.

In order to finance the season, each athlete or his parent must cough up $100 to help defray cost. However, head cross country coach Dave Medley says: "No way".

"I won't coach," he told his runners, "if you have to pay to run for me or the school."

Instead, Medley would have the kids organize fund raisers such as car washes, a marathon, "but I don't think a parent should pay over what she or he is already paying to have his kid compete in high school."

* * *

Another interesting note out of Belleville is the news that Mike Colletta, who resigned as head football coach last year, said he will return to guide the Tigers again.

Anyway that's what James Richendollar, high school principal revealed today. The elusive Colletta wasn't around for a comment.

It's good to learn that coach of Colletta's caliber is sticking around.

And George Tompkins, who for years tried unsuccessfully to win a trophy in the 5-City Championship Golf Tournaments, apparently does have a champ in the household.

Westland to host area's top gal clubs

Some of the top women's softball teams will also make appearances in this area as Westland has been selected for the site of the annual 24-team Women's Invitational.

The tournament is hosted by the Westland Athletic Officials Association in cooperation with the city of Westland. This year's invitational is the eighth classic which will bring together ball clubs from across the state.

The tourney will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 14, 15 and 16 at Westland's Jaycee Park's two diamonds, Hunter at Wildwood; Henry Ruff at Palmer's Voss field.

Twenty-four top-notch teams have entered the two game elimination event, including outstanding squads from Ann Arbor, Dexter, Detroit, Dearborn, Allen Park, Westland, Monroe, Wayne, Garden City, St. Clair Shores, Romulus, Plymouth, Taylor, Canton, Inkster and Southfield.

A total of 53 awards, incldluing an All Star, team and MVP award, will be given by WAOA, according to tournament director George Gillies.

"This tournament has been such a success in the past and I'm sure it will be again," Gillies said. WAOA will do a play-by-play of all games and when not officiating, the umpires will become part of the ground crew.

"This will give the fans a look at the finest ground crew ever assembled" he said.

Gillies turned down offers from other cities to keep the tournament to WAOA's home, Westland.

Large concession stands will be available with a variety of drinks, food, snacks and souvenirs.

The Westland Post 3323 Color Guard with their six person band and singer, will perform prior to the championship game on Sunday afternoon, August 16.

More than 1,000 spectators witnessed last year's championship game and WAOA officials are hoping to have an even larger turnout this year.

The WAOA umpires keep up-to-the-minute statistics on every player in the tournament and the ground crew keeps the fields in top shape for every game.

"This softball tournament is a joy to watch and every softball fan who attends will be glad they did," Gillies added.

Divisional WYAA champs

The Chippewas, who sported a perfect 14-0 record and earned the North Divisional championship, came within inches of upsetting city champs, the Dolphins, in the annual Westland Youth Athletic Association playoffs. In the top of the seventh and trailing 5-4, Alicia Lectka drilled a two-out, grand slam homer to put the Chippewas out in front, however, victory was not to be theirs as Shari Heatly hammered a roundtripper to give the Dolphins an 8-7 victory and the city crown. Pictured above are Chippewas: Coach Marilyn Robitaille (from left, top row), Lori Lein, Holly Heilman, Alicia Lectka, Kris Lovich, Cherie Robitaille, manager Bill Robitaille, Mary Pollard and Patti Debian; the bottom row includes Marcy Riccobono, Lisa Weide, Kim Mathes, Dawn Hewitt, Barbie Block, Denay Lies.

Tastee Freez 'creams' J&D Auto

In Wayne's Class A Women's softball action, Tastee Freez exploded for four runs in the top of the 6th inning to vvercome a 3-0 deficit and destroy J & D's upset aspirations.

Beth Tracy's two singles and a double by Wendy Reynolds were key factors in the game. J & D collected only seven hits off winning pitcher Renee Bernie and no runs the last three frames.

Tastee Freez rapped 10 hits off losing pitcher Ann knight, who pitched a very good game against the 8-1 ice cream girls, giving up only the four runs in the fatal 6th.

Pacing J & D's batting attack were Lou Hoeft with three singles and Sherrel Shaffer with a single and double, as the auto team's slate fell to 4-5.

Meanwhile, Mr. Steak had Greg's Emergency Room saying, "Holy Cow!" as they pounded out a 16-0 victory on 14 hits. The win, obtained on hurler Sue Riggs' 3-hit shutout, gave Mr. Steak a 6-3 mark. Greg's, whose Kim Sotrance was losing pitcher, is now 0-9. Pacing Mr. Steak's offense were Lisa Rumple and Kelly Reinick with three singles each and Sue Riggs and Sharon Sydenstricker with a pair each.

In women's Class B play, Extra Point defeated Wayne Bank, 11-8, to give both teams 5-6 records, far behind Tom's Tavern's 11-0 mark.

Sue Richardson's two homeruns and a single for four RBIs and Kay Beateau's two singles paced Extra Point's 10-hit offense. Dianne Trupiano was winning pitcher as she scattered seven Wayne Bank hits. However Wayne Bank's Deb Schmitt had a big night with two doubles and three runs batted in and teammate Pam Blevins added two singles as pitcher Gail St. Andrew took the loss.

Wayne Bank lost a second game, 8-4, to Second Street Market. Linda Ruffing held Wayne Bank to four hits and four runs as Kim McBain rapped a homerun and drive in four runs in her support.

Lucille's avoided last place by edging Tailenders Teal Electric, 5-4, when they scored three in the first and two more in the fifth.

John Glenn sets physicals

Swimmers who are planning to compete for Westland John Glenn's varsity team are asked to get their physical examinations out of the way before the first practice session.

Glenn Coach Debbie Sanders said that physicals will be conducted between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the offices of Dr. Schilberg, 30730 Ford Rd.

There is no charge.

The first practice session is scheduled for Aug. 26, between 3 to 5 p.m. at the high school pool.

She's Dene't Tompkins, George's 10-year-old daughter who captured state titles recently in the 50-meter butterfly (36.0), held at Lincoln Park Community Center last Saturday. There were some 500 swimmers competing in the parks and recreation sponsored championships.

Dene't attends Washington Elementary School in Wayne and swims for the Wayne Recreation team, the "Dolphins". She also is sporting league gold medals for her performances in the 50-meter freestyle and the 50-meter butterfly.

As long as Dene't doesn't decide to switch to golfing, George won't have anything to worry about. It be a bit embarrassing for the bearded one to lose to a 10-year-old, too.

Some 5-City Golf Championship winners...

Brooks sets the pace

Murray Brooks is a fine golfer and each year the Westland golfer finished near the top for that city's title. Brooks (right) won it this year with 72-78—150 in the Westland Championship Flight, while Dick Hodges (center) finished a close second with 78-75—153 and Ramzy Tawell (left) improved much over last year to fire a consistent 77-77 and 154 for third place. Westland First Flight leaders

Garden City slickers

Garden City always provides some talented golfers in the annual tourney and Terry and Brian Bielecki are usually right near the top. This year, Terry (right) won that city's Championship Flight with 155, while Richard Hunter (center) fires 156 for second place and Brian (left) came in third with 158. WHAT HAPPENED?

There you were at graduation. Confident about your future. Ready to conquer the world. But then you went to work. Just temporarily, of course. You bought a car and some clothes. And you found yourself working in an area you never really wanted at all. And everywhere you look, personnel departments want only people with experience.

But wait! Before you waste time working at something you don't like, find out how the Air Force can change your life. Let us find out where your strengths lie. Together we'll decide on a skill you like and the Air Force needs. Then you'll go on to technical school or on-the-job training. . . learning a skill that will help you compete in a fast moving world. You'll get the experience you need and the advantages of the Air Force great way of life.

But what about those financial commitments? You'll start earning good Air Force pay right away, with opportunity for advancement and regular pay raises.

So stop asking "What happened?"

MAKE your future happen in the Air Force. For your country. For yourself. Your local recruiter has details. Get in touch!
